U.S. Flies 1,500 Into Cambodia

... GEN. MINH IN COMMAND

Saigon (AP) — South Vietnamese forces launched a new drive into Cambodia Thursday, with 40 U.S. helicopters landing 1,500 men in the old battleground of the Parrot's Beak.

The landings took place from six to nine miles inside Cambodia and the troops headed toward Svay Rieng, a provincial capital about 65 miles northwest of Saigon near the western edge of the beak.

Simultaneously, 1,500 South Vietnamese who had been operating around the Cambodian town of Kompong Trach began moving south toward Svay Rieng 20 miles away.

Sappers Sought

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, commander of the 3rd Military Region around Saigon, who is directing the new operation, hopes to trap a 400-man North Vietnamese sapper battalion believed to be in the area. Other objectives are to disrupt enemy supply lines, uncover arms caches, and to slow North Vietnamese infiltration toward Saigon.

The drive is centered in flat marshlands straddling Highway 1 in a section of eastern Cambodia jutting into South Vietnam. It long has been used by the Communist-led forces as a staging area for operations against the Saigon region.

The Parrot's Beak was one of the first areas invaded by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops in the big offensive into Cambodia in May and June last year.

Lull Persists

In South Vietnam itself, the battlefield lull persisted another day. The allied commands reported only small patrol skirmishes.

B-52 bombers resumed their pounding of North Vietnamese positions just below the demilitarized zone after a one-day pause.

Only two miles south of the DMZ, South Vietnamese infantrymen took over control from American troops of Con Thien, a strongpoint on the allied defense line which has been renamed Fire Base Alpha 4.

About 300 U.S. troops and 50 armored personnel carriers of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, moved out of Alpha 4 and were replaced by infantrymen of the South Vietnamese 1st Division.

More than 150 Americans will remain at Alpha for the present. They include artillerymen manning 8-inch U.S. guns, and communications technicians equipped with radar and sensors for detecting North Vietnamese movements across the DMZ.

Artillery Unit Out

The U.S. Command in Saigon announced that a 660-man artillery unit, also in the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Division has been withdrawn from combat in preparation for redeployment. The artillerymen remaining at Alpha 4 are not from the brigade but from the U.S. 24th Corps.

The vanguard of Thailand's 11,800-man force also began a slow withdrawal from the Vietnam conflict. A small advance party left from the Thai headquarters base 20 miles east of Saigon and about 5,000 more men will return to Thailand over the next two months.

The U.S. Command released its weekly casualty summary, reporting 23 Americans were killed in action and 182 wounded last week. Ten American died from nonhostile causes.

321 Viets Killed

The Saigon command said 321 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 674 were wounded last week, compared with 492 killed and 976 wounded the previous week.

The allied commands claimed a sharp increase in the number of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week, reporting 2,280 enemy dead or 830 more than the previous week.

Official figures showed these casualty totals for the war, through last Saturday: The United States — 45,344 killed, 300,692 wounded and 9,644 dead from noncombat causes; South Vietnam — 129,926 killed and 282,101 wounded, and North Vietnam and Viet Cong — 757,287 killed.

ECONOMIST GALBRAITH ... testifies against bill.

Scorn, Sarcasm Heaped On Save-Lockheed Bill

Washington (UPI) — Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith heaped scorn and sarcasm Thursday that legislation to save the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from bankruptcy. He said it would serve no purpose except to boost the political stock of Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

In 30 years of testimony on various bills, "it is both philosophically and practically the most nearly indefensible measure that I have encountered," Galbraith told the Senate Banking Committee.

The former national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action and adviser to President John F. Kennedy heaped scorn and sarcasm on the bill that would guarantee government repayment of $2 billion in loans to financially troubled corporations — starting with $250 million in loan guarantees for Lockheed.

"Military-Industrial Complex" Galbraith, who once proposed nationalizing defense industries, said the bill, if enacted, would prove that "the military-industrial complex is alive in Washington and doing well."

He questioned whether, "in the present state of public opinion and the present attitude of younger citizens, this demonstration is really necessary."

Connally won President Nixon's support for the Lockheed proposal, but Galbraith said Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board and Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard had embraced the measure "with approximately the enthusiasm they would show for tertiary syphilis or terminal leprosy."

New Boy In Town

Connally stands to gain the most from congressional approval of any such legislation, Galbraith suggested. "As a new boy in town and a Democrat in a Republican administration, he has a need to prove himself with the President," he said.

Lockheed says it faces bankruptcy unless it can get the loan guarantees to continue production of its new commercial jetliner, the L1011 TriStar. Part of its difficulties stem from the financial failure of the TriStar engine makers, Rolls Royce.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., told the committee that if the government is willing to rescue "a few giant and persistently shaky" corporations, it should do the same for hospitals, colleges and medical schools.

Bayh proposed authorizing the government to underwrite loans to any financially ailing social institutions with a reasonable chance to make good on a loan.

He said 540 colleges enrolling 1.6 million students are in deep trouble, and that medical schools as well endowed as Johns Hopkins University were deep in debt at a time when there is a shortage of 50,000 doctors.

UNEMPLOYMENT, INFLATION TOO STUBBORN . . .

Nixon Economist Tosses In Towel; Goal Too High

Washington (UPI) — The Nixon administration conceded for the first time Thursday that the goals it set in January for the economy's growth in 1971 and for a rapid slowdown in the pace of inflation and unemployment are now unattainable.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, formally threw in the towel at the House-Senate Economic Committee's midyear review of the economy.

He said unemployment and inflation "have turned out to be more stubborn than we expected" in January when President Nixon forecast a 9% growth rate this year in the nation's gross national product (GNP), the total value of all goods and services produced by the nation.

Other Forecasts

Implicit in the administration's forecast of a $1.065 trillion GNP were these other forecasts for the economy:

—An unemployment rate of 5% by the end of the year and of 4.5% by mid-1972. The rate stood at 5.6% in June and averaged near or above 6% for the first five months of the year.

—An inflation rate of 4% at the end of this year and of 3.5% by mid-1972. McCracken said the latest figures show the inflation rate approaching 4% but the year's average is expected to be higher than that.

To reach those goals, the administration said last January, the GNP would have to reach $1.065 trillion.

Liberal economists said that target could not be reached without greater stimulation — through stepped-up spending or a tax cut — than the administration would permit.

'Poppycock'

Paul W. Samuelson, the Nobel Prize-winning economist who testified before the committee in February, termed the administration's projections "poppycock."

"No responsible jury of informed persons can agree that the Nixon team forecast of a money GNP for 1971 of $1.065 billion is warranted," he said.

But McCracken, appearing before the same panel on Feb. 5, termed the prediction "feasible and the probable outcome for the year."

Push Now Said Bad

On Thursday, however, he said that if the economy were now to be pushed hard enough "to reach the targets previously put forward that would revive inflation or at least seriously delay its abatement."

McCracken testified that if the administration stimulated the economy enough to bring unemployment down sharply, inflation would inevitably reheat.

Under its present policy, he said, "employment will rise and unemployment will fall about as rapidly as is consistent with satisfactory reduction of the inflation rate. To permit the inflation to revive for some short-run and doubtful advantage to ourselves, would be highly irresponsible," he said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the committee, called McCracken's report "disturbing and desperate."

"What you are telling us," he said, is that progress in fighting inflation has been "very limited," that the goal of curbing unemployment "is not being reached."

BRIDGE COLLAPSES

Ten tons of earth scraper obviously proved too much for this splintered bridge on a county road four miles north of Harbin Thursday evening. The result was a spectacular crash of some 15 feet into Cub Creek. The mishap quickly attracted sightseers, but driver Mike Moller of Syracuse, 20, escaped without injury. The giant machine is owned by Bill Koon of Red Cloud. (Star Staff Photo.)

Truck Mishap Fatal To Man

Omaha (AP) — An unidentified man was killed Thursday night when he slipped and fell under the wheels of a cement truck in downtown Omaha.

Police said the man apparently was running along beside the truck trying to get the attention of the driver when the truck turned off Leavenworth St. to go north on 16th St. Police said the victim then apparently fell under the wheels of the vehicle and was crushed.

The death raised Nebraska's 1971 traffic fatality toll to 202, compared with 199 on the same date a year ago.

Man, 28, Injured In 2-Car Mishap

A Lincoln man was hospitalized for multiple cuts at Lincoln General as a result of a two-car collision at 27th and O late Thursday night according to Police Officer Larry Dvorak.

Dvorak said Marvin Rozmarin, 28, of 908 Elmwood was injured when the vehicle he was driving was in collision with the rear of a vehicle driven by Duane Becker, 26, of 1926 S. 26th.

The Rozmarin vehicle was southbound on 27th and the Becker car was stopped southbound on 27th at O, Dvorak said.

Game Wardens Urge Longevity Pay Scale

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Representatives of Nebraska's game wardens Thursday presented to the Game and Parks Commission a longevity pay scale recommendation for raises totaling $32 per man for every four years of service. The commission voted to draft such a proposal and send it to the legislative budget committee.

The wardens noted several instances of officers of the same job grade and step but with different total years of service receiving the same pay.

They cited one instance of two wardens receiving the same amount of pay for the same job, but one man had been with the department 25 years and the other only 14 years.

"We want a just way to pay a premium for experience," a spokesman said. He noted that other state agencies receive raises according to years of service, such as the State Patrol.

Commission members James C. Columbus of Omaha and Dr. Bruce Cowgill of Silver Creek and Director Willard R. Barbee sym-pathized with the wardens' request.

However, the possibilities of these raises going into effect were jeopardized from the outset by the state's austerity budget for fiscal 1972.

'Brushing Ceiling'

Barbee noted, "There is a personnel services budget ceiling set by the Legislature, and we are currently, without the proposed raises, brushing against the ceiling."

"This increase would go above the ceiling. The Legislature would have to authorize such a pay increase. We are not free to pay what we want."

Barbee also noted that as a rule the agency had a reputation as having some of the most generous employee benefits in state government. He said that the agency had been the first state governmental agency to provide insurance programs for its employees.

As an alternative Barbee suggested that the place to begin pushing for a longevity pay scale is with the state budget committee and the Legislature.

"It does little good for representatives of the wardens to come to lobby the commission and the director, since we are powerless to do it within the budget," Barbee said.

Cut In Services

He said that if any kind of raise were possible, services would have to be cut.

"In effect, we have a choice between cutting out jobs and services or raises. Some services will definitely have to be cut. The commission must help me to decide which services will be cut," he said.

In other action regarding the Aerospace Museum at Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha, Barbee said he had asked the governor for communication ties between his advisory committee and the Game and Parks agency in the form of a common official.

This was the result of the advisory committee's intervention and change of plans for the museum. Barbee noted that his agency had invested $12,000 in the project when the advisory committee changed the plans.

Barbee said it had been indicated that action would be taken to coordinate their efforts.

Glenn Wilson Jr. Is Bish's Choice For Executive Secretary Of GOP

Glenn Wilson Jr. is Republican State Chairman Milanbush's choice for executive secretary of Nebraska's GOP.

Bish announced his choice in Lincoln Thursday night.

Wilson, 33, a former Omahan, is currently executive director of the Young Republican National Federation in Washington, D.C.

His appointment will be submitted to the GOP state executive committee for confirmation. It will meet in Grand Island Saturday.

Wilson would succeed Joe Edwards in the state party post.

"In Glenn Wilson, we have a man with experience, integrity and political acumen," Bish said.

Nebraska is his home and is taking a personal sacrifice in salary to return to this state to work for the party."

Wilson would assume the post full time on August 1 at a salary of $14,000 a year.

Wilson lived in Omaha from 1963 to 1967, serving in 1965 as Douglas County Young GOP chairman.

Reds Refuse Private Sessions

... U.S. REJECTS DEMAND FOR UNCONDITIONAL PULLOUT

Paris (AP) — The United States rejected Thursday Communist demands for the unconditional withdrawal of American forces from South Vietnam but moved to negotiate the whole new Viet Cong peace plan in private talks.

The Communist delegates turned down the bid for private sessions.

A Viet Cong spokesman said after the 120th peace talks session that the form of meetings could be discussed after the United States replied to the demand to set a date for American troop withdrawals.

Cold Water
U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce and South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam poured cold water on much of the seven-point Viet Cong peace package submitted last Thursday.

However, they said they were willing to explore it more deeply to clarify obscure issues.

Bruce said although there were "new elements" in the plan, basic Communist demands seemed unchanged. He did not repeat last week's White House assessment of positive elements in the peace plan.

Lam told the Communists: "We did not find any significant changes in your fundamental demands."

'Modalities'
In presenting her North Vietnam-approved plan last week, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong said that if the United States agreed to get out of South Vietnam by the end of the year "modalities" would be agreed upon for "the release of the totality of military of all parties and of the civilians captured in the war including American pilots captured in North Vietnam, so that they may all rapidly return to their homes. These two operations — withdrawal and prisoner release will begin on the same date and will end on the same date."

Bruce wondered in his speech if agreement on "modalities" was not merely a "variation of your previous statement that the parties will engage at once in discussions on prisoner release."

This was a major sticking point in previous Communist proposals on prisoner release. They gave no indication how long such discussions would continue.

Bruce also said the Communists must release prisoners they hold in Laos and Cambodia — not only in Vietnam as stipulated in the new peace plan.

Both Bruce and Lam raised the issue of a political settlement as laid down by the Communists.

"You continued to insist that the present government of the Republic of Vietnam must be replaced by one which fulfills your own criteria," Bruce said. "We will not impose any government on the people of South Vietnam, who must be allowed to determine for themselves their own future." Lam asked: "How is it possible in a democratic regime for legal power to change hands other than by popular will and through established rules?"

Lam posed this and nine other questions seeking answers to what he called ambiguity in the new proposals.

In their formal speeches, neither Mrs. Binh nor Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnam answerer any of the questions. They returned to their peace plan and insisted it met the wishes of the U.S. people and others in the world.

Thuy's accusation
After the meeting, Thuy accused Bruce of refusing "to give a serious response" to the peace plan. Mrs. Binh told reporters that Bruce "tried to use the question of the nature of the meetings to evade the imperative demands of the people of Vietnam, the United States and the world."

In his speech at the meeting Bruce declared the demand for withdrawal of all U.S. and non-Vietnamese forces "are so sweeping and categorical in nature that we cannot possibly accept your arbitrary determination that they must be agreed to by us without any discussion or negotiation upon them."

The Viet Cong plan demanding U.S. troop withdrawal and the dismantling of American bases said these must be accomplished "without posing any condition whatsoever."

Bruce said, "We are ready, as we always have been, to take up with you any points which you have or might bring to our attention, and we expect you in turn to adopt the same attitude toward any suggestions made by us. It would be most unprecedented for a negotiation to take any other course."

Secret Session Proposed
Then Bruce proposed that next Thursday's session be "free from the glare of publicity and without the need to make public statements except to the degree we mutually agree upon. This restricted session plan could provide a better atmosphere for productive discussions."

At present set speeches of the delegates are made public and delegation officers give briefing to reporters after the meetings. The United States argues that this procedure has turned the Paris conference into a sterile propaganda battle.

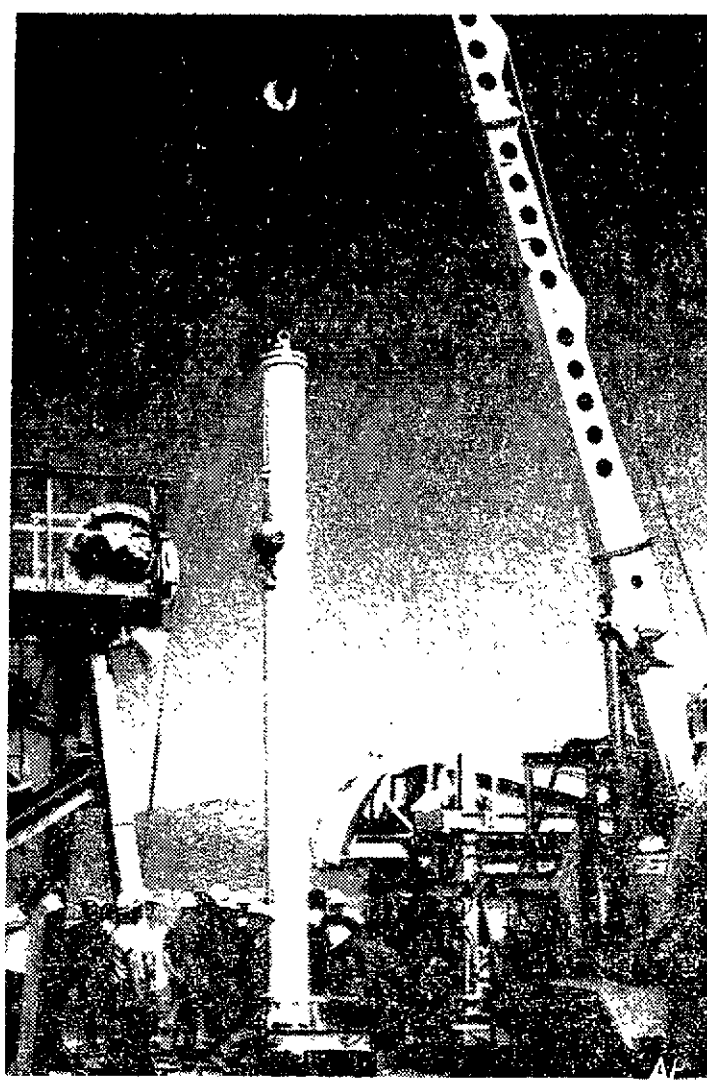

The Communists retort that the form of the meetings is not important, but have not agreed to hold the publicity free sessions.

Communist delegates at the meeting leaned heavily on what they said was worldwide approval of their peace package, and called on President Nixon to give a positive response.

Mrs. Binh put four questions to Bruce, including whether he agreed to consider the seven points for negotiations and among the points, which did he consider positive and which unacceptable.

The other questions: Was the United States ready to fix a deadline with withdrawal immediately, and was it ready to halt "support for the warlike and corrupt group in power in Saigon."

Bruce replied that these questions were the kind that the United States would like to answer in a restricted session.

ATOMIC BOMB . . . is lowered into hole.

AEC Tests Atom Bomb Made To Release Gas

Mercury, Nev. (AP) — A nuclear explosive designed to free natural gas trapped in rock formations was successfully tested under the desert here Thursday, Atomic Energy Commission officials said.

The bomb, set off at the bottom of a 1,733-foot shaft, had the force of 80,000 tons of TNT, about four times that of the bomb dropped on Hiroshima. The AEC said it released no radiation into the atmosphere.

The blast bulged the surface of the desert and sent out shock waves that rocked observers 12 miles away and were felt in Las Vegas, 90 miles away.

For Rockies' Gas
The shot, code-named Miniata, was the first test of a device the AEC has spent five years developing.

In another five years the AEC hopes to sell a similar device to industry for fracturing the vast sandstone beds that lie under several Rocky Mountain states.

Scientists say there is enough natural gas trapped in those formations to double the nation's reserve of the fuel, but it is now not possible to tap economically.

By fracturing the rock with 20 to 60 bombs like Miniata, scientists say they can create a cavern of fractured rock from which large quantities of gas could easily be drawn.

President Nixon recently told Congress that increasing the natural gas reserve was one of the nation's most urgent energy needs.

The explosive package for Miniata was eight inches wide, small enough to be lowered inside the pipes normally used in gas fields.

The AEC said it was also a very "clean" bomb, expected to produce less than one-tenth the radiation of bombs previously tested for gas field use. Low radiation is important because some of the radioactive byproducts will be carried by the gas produced into homes or factories where the gas is burned.

Still to be developed is a method for detonating more than one bomb in sequence to increase fracturing power and reduce cost.

Environmentalists Protest AEC Aleutian Test

Washington — A new environmental protection group officially announced its existence Thursday by filing suit against the Atomic Energy Commission in an attempt to halt a huge underground nuclear test in the Aleutian Islands scheduled for October.

The Committee for Nuclear Responsibility includes AEC critic John Gofman, poet Lenore Marshall and former United States Senator Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., as co-chairmen.

They held a news conference here to disclose their law suit aimed at blocking the test, code named Cannikin.

The committee was formed to provide "accurate information concerning biological effects of nuclear radiation" and "to work toward a moratorium on the construction of nuclear power plants" as well as to promote more research on alternate means of producing electrical power, a statement from the group said.

The Cannikin test is to be an underground shot of five megatons or more, some 5,875 feet below the Wilderness Island of Amchitka in the Aleutian chain.

Amchitka has been the site of two previous blasts — Bilroy and Longshot.

CIA Tells Nixon VC Plan's Aim Is To Embarrass U.S.

The New York Times

By TAD SZULC

Washington — The Central Intelligence Agency has told President Nixon that the new Viet Cong peace proposal is aimed at embarrassing the United States "both at home and overseas" and encouraging the opponents of President Nguyen Van Thieu in South Vietnam.

Other negative comments on the plan were contained in a detailed analysis submitted to Nixon and other top administration officials last Friday, a day after Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the chief Viet Cong delegate, offered her proposals at the Paris talks.

The CIA evaluation, according to senior administration officials, was one of several top-level studies of the Communist plan on which Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers based their decision to instruct the U.S. delegation in Paris to seek further clarifications Thursday from the Communist side in "restricted sessions" or private talks.

Numerous Reservations

The evaluation as well as the parallel studies prepared in recent days by the State and Defense Departments and the National Security Council staff have expressed numerous serious reservations about the Viet Cong plan.

But all the studies also found new elements in the plan.

The CIA paper, for example, noted that "it softens" the Communist position on the American prisoners of war and presents "two new nuances" on the South Vietnamese political settlement. For this reason, senior officials said, the administration chose to seek to engage in what officials here termed "meaningful negotiations."

Not Outright Rejection

Senior officials emphasized that they did not consider the fact that the Communists had not responded immediately to the proposal for "restricted" sessions, made Thursday in Paris by U.S. negotiator David Bruce, as an outright rejection.

They said, "Something resembling a negotiating process may be in the making."

At San Clemente, Calif., where Nixon and Rogers conferred for the third time this week on strategy in the Paris talks, a White House spokesman, Gerald L. Warren, said Bruce was attempting to start "meaningful negotiations."

State Department press officer Charles W. Bray said here, "We regret that the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong did not respond affirmatively to this suggestion but continue to hope that they will do so."

To Be Reviewed Again

Other officials said the negotiating situation would be reviewed again when Henry Kissinger joins Nixon and Rogers in San Clemente Sunday. The next scheduled session of the Paris talks is next Thursday. Kissinger, the President's special assistant for national security affairs, visited Saigon last weekend and is to confer with Bruce in Paris Saturday.

Richard Helms, director of the CIA, which was reported to have drafted the first analysis of the Viet Cong plan, participated in the discussion on the U.S. response to the Communist proposals after he flew to San Clemente with Nixon and Rogers Tuesday.

Officials familiar with various administration evaluations of the Viet Cong plan said the CIA analysis was "perhaps the most pessimistic — but also the most realistic — of the lot."

Awkward For U.S.

But after analyzing the plan, the CIA document offered this assessment of the Communist motives in presenting their July 1 proposals:

"The Communists doubtless hope that their initiative on the prisoners — coupled as it is with a restatement of their basic position on U.S. withdrawals — will make things awkward for the U.S. government both at home and overseas."

"They may also believe that their political proposals will appeal to many in the United States who are looking for a face-saving way out of the war. They probably are also hoping that the new proposal will fuel worries in Saigon about Washington's longer-term support."

"The new formula for a political settlement in South Vietnam, by its fuzziness and air of reasonableness, is designed both to encourage individuals in South Vietnam whose support of the war is wavering and to give some ammunition to those who are already working to build an anti-Thieu, anti-war constituency."

Election Influence

This aspect of the analysis was known to coincide with the belief in other administration quarters that the Communist peace plan was launched, at least in part, to influence the outcome of the October elections in South Vietnam, when President Thieu will seek reelection.

The analysis said the Viet Cong plan's first "new nuance" was that instead of demanding a coalition regime in Hanoi, it "simply demands that the United States 'cease backing the bellicose group' headed by Thieu."

The other nuance, it said, is that the Communists no longer ask a "three-segment" regime, including Communists, but a broad "government of national concord" to be negotiated by the Viet Cong with a "post-Thieu administration."

Rioting In Omaha Parks Rages For Third Night

... POLICE USE TEAR GAS, NIGHT STICKS

By PATRICIA A. KOZA
United Press International
Omaha — Rioting hippies, yuppies and other young people battled police for the third night Thursday, hurling rocks, bottles and at least one Molotov cocktail in protest to a curfew placed on a park dedicated to the war dead.

There was no immediate estimate of injuries or property damage.

Police battled back with tear gas and night sticks.

One policeman was reported injured late in the evening. He was Gary Beccera, in his 20s. The extent of his injury was not known.

The arrest count by midnight had reached 16, police said.

A civilian, not identified, was assaulted while coming out of a swimming pool in the area. He suffered a head wound.

Another, his head bloodied, was seen walking some distance away.

Several newsmen and newswomen reported being charged by police during the melee.

At least two police cars were damaged. Some youths tossed tear gas canisters back at police, who tried to kick them aside.

Cries of "pig" and "you're polluting the air" met the heavy detachment of police as they tried to disperse a crowd following a city-approved rock festival.

Mayor Eugene Leahy was one of those at the scene late in the evening.

Earlier in the day authorities had suggested television stations show all of their film on the air so parents could see if their children were involved in demonstrations the past two evenings.

Police Chief Richard Andersen went so far as to suggest the stations air the obscenities voiced at the police.

Nick Kidd, 28, a machinist, and Jack Kiellian, 25, an ironworker, said they were going through the area on Kidd's motorcycle when they were accosted. Both were injured by the mob.

"They beat me. They kicked me," Kidd said. "They knocked the light out of my motorcycle."

Dodge St., a major thoroughfare, was blocked again before police used their special tear gas guns.

Approximately 1,500 persons attended the concert, approved by the city to prevent the demonstrations which have occurred since an 8 p.m. curfew was instituted at Memorial Park.

Approximately 25 police officers, armed with riot masks and clubs, cleared Memorial Park early in the evening with little resistance. Most of the youths were at the concert at Elmwood, just across Dodge St.

Earlier police and city officials warned the trouble-prone young persons that they are going to be dealt with in a tougher manner.

The rock concert had been approved in an attempt to cool things own.

"Police will no longer tolerate people standing around taunting police and motorists," said Public Safety Director Al Pattavina. "We're going to make more arrests of those milling around public and private property."

Pattavina and Mayor Eugene Leahy took special aim at out-of-town troublemakers, estimating that 25 to 50 of those who took part in the two nights of disturbances were not Mahans.

"I hope we round up these people from out of town and I hope the courts see fit to give them some jail time," said Leahy, a former municipal judge. Federal officials said they were watching the situation to determine whether any of those involved could be charged with crossing state lines to incite a riot.

These would include residents of Council Bluffs, Iowa, just across the Missouri River, U.S. District Atty. Richard A. Dier said.

Originally triggering the disturbances was a City Council-imposed curfew on Memorial Park, put into effect after reports of drinking and drug abuse in the park. Leahy said Thursday he is "not about to compromise" on the curfew.

While police had no evidence that out-of-towners were organizing the rock-throwing assaults on police, one of the youths jailed, James Strong, 18, Omaha, said that 10 of those taking part were from the White Panther organization from Michigan and Illinois.

The White Panthers, he said, are a counter part of the Black Panther organization.

Strong said he informed the White Panther organization headquarters in Ann Arbor, Mich., of the impending curfew last week and the 10 members responded by journeying to Omaha last weekend.

'69 Miss America On Hand For Nebraska Event

Two contestants in the Miss Nebraska Pageant get some tips from Miss America of 1969, Judi Ford of Belvidere, Ill., (center), during preliminaries to the Nebraska contest under way at Kearney. They are Mary Jochim, 20, left, Papillion, representing the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and Inda Suzanne Holmes, 18, of Falls City, representing southeastern Nebraska. Finals in the contest will be staged Saturday night with the selection of Miss Nebraska. Miss Ford is serving as mistress of ceremonies Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Debbie Sullivan of Omaha is the retiring Miss Nebraska. The winner will receive a $500 Miss Nebraska fund, plus a $1,000 state scholarship award; her runner-up will receive $750. John O'Brien of Kearney is pageant producer. In preliminary contest Thursday evening Sally Lou Warner of Bushnell won the bathing suit competition and Peggy Neal of Gothenburg topped the talent contest.

Hot Charcoal Theorized As Cause Of Sokol Fire

Omaha (AP) — Firemen theorized Thursday that hot charcoal from an over-turned grill possibly started the blaze that destroyed the Bohemian Catholic Sokol Building in a four-alarm blaze Wednesday night.

Fire Chief Vernon Van Scoy said it was the first four-alarm fire in Omaha history and that 31 pieces of equipment, including three rescue squad ambulances, responded.

There were no serious injuries. Two firemen suffered smoke inhalation and another was treated for cuts.

The structure was about 31 years old. The two-story building contained meeting rooms, a caretaker's quarters, an auditorium and the Skomal Hardware & TV Rental Service, operated by James J. Skomal.

The Catholic Sokol Building is 10 blocks north of the better known Sokol Auditorium and bowling alley in South Omaha. The auditorium and bowling alley structure was not involved in the fire.

Chief fire investigator George Giddings said the blaze may have started from hot coals spilled into an open doorway of the building after the caretakers, Bernard Scheuler and his wife, had cooked a small roast on the grill on the fire escape.

Pontoon Span Work Starts Near Morrill

Morrill (AP) — Some 60 vehicles and 200 men from Fort Carson, Colo., have arrived in Morrill to begin construction of a 320-foot pontoon bridge across the North Platte River south of the community.

Five spans of the bridge across Highway 226 collapsed during flooding on the river June 19.

Local businessmen and Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., had urged the construction of the temporary bridge, which will serve until a permanent span is rebuilt.

The pontoon bridge is being built as an Army training exercise. The one-lane, 60-ton capacity pontoon bridge is similar to those used in Southeast Asia.

The company is expected to complete the bridge Sunday.

Rural U.S. Redevelopment Bill Introduced By Rep. Thone

Washington — A bill for redevelopment of rural America was introduced in the House of Representatives Thursday afternoon by Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb. The proposal is similar to a bill introduced in the Senate Wednesday.

"The purposes of this program are to relieve the strains and pressures of over urbanization as well as to revitalize America's heartland," Thone said.

The bill will propose a new banking system funded over an initial 10-year period with $2 billion in federal funds and thereafter be self sustaining. The banking system would make loans to finance projects that would create new jobs and community facilities in rural areas and in municipalities under 35,000 population.

A second phase of the bill would expand U.S. Department of Agriculture programs for farm and community development.

"I am not going to be deterred from sponsoring this legislation in the House just because its principal sponsors are Democratic Senators Herman E. Talmadge and Hubert H. Humphrey," Thone said.

"Republican Senators George D. Aiken and Milton R. Young are Senate co-sponsors and I expect bi-partisan support for my measure in the House," Thone added.

"Too many people have played partisan politics with the legislation affecting rural areas. Agricultural areas have had the beggars share of America's rising income and this program will help restore prosperity to small towns while reducing the strangling overgrowth of major metropolitan centers," Thone said.

86-Year-Old Is Robbed 4 Times In Last 10 Days

Charlotte, N.C. (AP) — For 86-year-old Grover C. Clary, the past 10 days have been rough. He's been robbed four times.

He was beaten and robbed at his home Tuesday and again Wednesday. The week before, his house was burglarized twice.

Police arrested six persons, three of them juveniles, and charged them with robbing Clary on three of the occasions. One of them was wounded by a roomer at Clary's home who heard the retired barber call for help.

Clary said he's thinking of moving in with relatives now.

Cookie Jar Not Safe Cash Cache

Sparks, Nev. (UPI) — A hungry 4-year-old girl countered a problem when she dipped her hand into a neighbor's cookie jar. Instead of cookies, she found $240.

The tot took the money and showed it to a 7-year-old friend. Meanwhile, Mrs. Betty Nummer reported the disappearance of her money to police.

A patrolman questioned the young ladies and learned they had decided to return the money, but they didn't want to be discovered, so they placed the currency by a tire of the Nummer car parked at the curb. The wind blew most of the bills down the street.

The officer managed to recover $235 and return it to Mrs. Nummer, who didn't say whether she would still trust her cookie jar as a safe place for her savings.

Hruska Introduces Bill To Permit Appellate Review Of Sentences

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., has introduced a bill to permit appellate review of sentences imposed for federal crimes.

Hruska, ranking Republican on the judiciary committee, has failed in two previous attempts to get an amendment to the U.S. code.

He said the amendment was needed to "correct one of the greatest single injustices existing in our federal criminal process today: the lack of authority and machinery to review unreasonable sentences."

Hruska said the measure would correct disparities of sentences between federal districts for similar crimes.

Federal judges often have noted that "a sentence is the only discretionary power vested in the federal trial judge which is not subject to appeal," he said.

"The responsibility for determining the proper sentence is so great as to justify and warrant the means of review," Hruska said.

He said his bill would not require a review of federal sentences, but it would permit them.

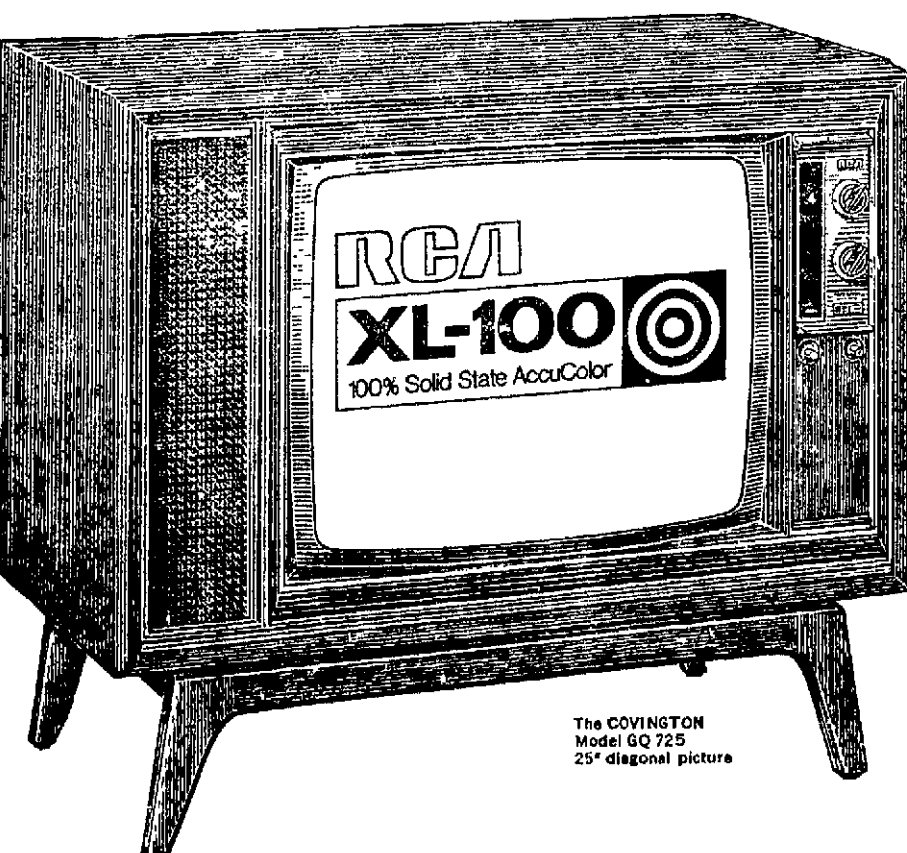

The bill, Hruska said, reflects the view of the national commission on reform of federal criminal laws which has promoted a total reform of the federal criminal laws by the criminal laws and procedures subcommittee.

Hruska said the bill had the support of at least eight other committee members, including Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Quentin Burdick, D-N.D.; Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii; Edward D. Gurney, R-Fla.; Philip Hart, D-Mich.; Charles Mathias, R-Md.; Hugh Scott, R-Pa. and John Tunney, D-Calif.

Rioting In Omaha Parks Rages For Third Night

... POLICE USE TEAR GAS, NIGHT STICKS

By PATRICIA A. KOZA
United Press International
Omaha — Rioting hippies, yuppies and other young people battled police for the third night Thursday, hurling rocks, bottles and at least one Molotov cocktail in protest to a curfew placed on a park dedicated to the war dead.

There was no immediate estimate of injuries or property damage.

Police battled back with tear gas and night sticks.

One policeman was reported injured late in the evening. He was Gary Becerra, in his 20s. The extent of his injury was not known.

The arrest count by midnight had reached 16, police said.

A civilian, not identified, was assaulted while coming out of a swimming pool in the area. He suffered a head wound.

Another, his head bloodied, was seen walking some distance away.

Several newsmen and newswomen reported being charged by police during the melee.

At least two police cars were damaged. Some youths tossed tear gas canisters back at police, who tried to kick them aside.

Cries of "pig" and "you're polluting the air" met the heavy detachment of police as they tried to disperse a crowd following a city-approved rock festival.

Mayor Eugene Leahy was one of those at the scene late in the evening.

Earlier in the day authorities had suggested television stations show all of their film on the air so parents could see if their children were involved in demonstrations the past two evenings.

Police Chief Richard Andersen went so far as to suggest the stations air the obscenities voiced at the police.

Nick Kidd, 28, a machinist, and Jack Kiellian, 25, an ironworker, said they were going through the area on Kidd's motorcycle when they were accosted. Both were injured by the mob.

"They beat me. They kicked me," Kidd said. "They knocked the light out of my motorcycle."

Dodge St., a major thoroughfare, was blocked again before police used their special tear gas guns.

Approximately 1,500 persons attended the concert, approved by the city to prevent the demonstrations which have occurred since an 8 p.m. curfew was instituted at Memorial Park.

Approximately 25 police officers, armed with riot masks and clubs, cleared Memorial Park early in the evening with little resistance. Most of the youths were at the concert at Elmwood, just across Dodge St.

Earlier police and city officials warned the trouble-prone young persons that they are going to be dealt with in a tougher manner.

The rock concert had been approved in an attempt to cool things down.

"Police will no longer tolerate people standing around taunting police and motorists," said Public Safety Director Al Pattavina. "We're going to make more arrests of those milling around public and private property."

Pattavina and Mayor Eugene Leahy took special aim at out-of-town troublemakers, estimating that 25 to 50 of those who took part in the two nights of disturbances were not Omahans.

"I hope we round up these people from out of town and I hope the courts see fit to give them some jail time," said Leahy, a former municipal judge. Federal officials said they were watching the situation to determine whether any of those involved could be charged with crossing state lines to incite a riot.

These would include residents of Council Bluffs, Iowa, just across the Missouri River, U.S. District Atty. Richard A. Dier said.

Originally triggering the disturbances was a City Council-imposed curfew on Memorial Park, put into effect after reports of drinking and drug abuse in the park. Leahy said Thursday he is "not about to compromise" on the curfew.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

When the whole issue between State Senator Ernest Chambers and Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler is sifted through, you have the feeling that the two are not so far apart as the issues as they are in personalities. There is considerable agreement between them that improvements in the Nebraska penal system are needed.

Chambers, however, feels that improvement will never come with Sigler or anyone like him. On the other side, Sigler naturally takes issue with this and the record tends to back him up, even though no one might attribute perfection to him.

Possibly, Sigler would rely somewhat more than might be necessary on theories and principles of discipline but Chambers, we believe, would err at least as heavily in the other direction. Additionally, we go along with Sigler when he says that Chambers, so far, has talked mainly to the known trouble-makers in the penitentiary.

If things are wrong at the reformatory and penitentiary, however, why has Sigler not done anything about it if he agrees that such is the case? Sigler has done a lot already on the side of rehabilitation and improved custodial care of the inmates and this is the personal philosophy of the man.

This is why we think Chambers is unfair in his criticism of the Sigler administration. But Sigler has not done more for one simple reason — the state of Nebraska has not wanted to do more.

It is such an old and tired story that we are almost sick of telling it but maybe if it is repeated often enough, someone will begin to listen. First off, the people of Nebraska, meaning its political leadership and its electorate, have not bought a modern concept of penology.

A penitentiary and reformatory, along with other correctional institutions, are viewed by Nebraskans as places of punishment, as places to separate criminals from the rest of society for the safety of that society. Unfortunately, this is only one part of the purpose of such institutions.

It is no longer even a major part but it is still the dominant thinking in Nebraska. Therefore, when you propose the erection of new and modern facilities, the inauguration of advanced rehabilitation programs, the upgrading of professional staff and other changes, you are told that a penitentiary is not supposed to be a penthouse.

You are reminded that no one put the inmates in those institutions, they are there because they chose to break the law. You are told about the evils of coddling prisoners and even reminded of so-called Biblical incantations of an eye for an eye.

You get, in short, all the fuzzy thinking, prejudice and plain old stupidity that have for far too long held sway in the correctional system of the entire nation. No less a figure than President Nixon himself has placed the modernization and upgrading of our prisons in the highest of priority ratings.

But the people want revenge and they have so little appreciation or understanding of the tremendous sociological factors associated with the world of crime. If they can't comprehend the concept of rehabilitation, then they certainly will never support it with tax dollars.

What a modern penal approach has to recognize is that there are, basically, two kinds of people to deal with — those who can and will respond to opportunity and those who will not. For the latter, a cell with bars and stern discipline is the only answer.

For the former, something entirely different is needed. Chambers, we feel, fails to differentiate between the two, even though he is correct in his assessment of many of the existing shortcomings.

The matter of segregation of prisoners is a delicate one, relating as much as anything else, perhaps, to the equality of treatment rather than the separation of individuals. We are not prepared to approve of total integration in the penitentiary, simply because the moral and human factors there are not the same as they are in society in general.

Chambers can contribute immeasurably to the achievement of the improvements we need in Nebraska if he maintains a balanced and impersonal attitude in his work. Nebraska's correctional system does need to change but that is no indictment of Sigler, a man who has done his share to make things better and to put the spotlight on continuing shortcomings.

Hay Fever Nothing To Be Sneezed At

NEW YORK — Today's subject is the ever-popular malady of the pharmaceutical firms: hay fever.

Perhaps you are thinking of turning away from this subject, because you surmise it has nothing to do with you. Your nose may be as dry as an unhealthy dog's.

But don't be hasty. This is a reminder that hay fever is a very sneaky element, often creeping up and assaulting a nose quite late in life. One year your proboscis may be quite normal — and the next Thursday, about noon, suddenly all smell breaks loose.

In other words, people who have lived 45 years without hay fever may rather abruptly, in mid-age, develop an angry tickling sensation in the nostrils and find that it has come to roost until Labor Day.

I speak from experience, as one who is only lately realizing that, as senility approacheth, so caneth pollen. It does not seem quite civilized to have romped, dry-nosed, through the carefree years of youth and then—in the prime of life, having learned to care for one's health and keep the nose powdered and eyes mascara'd—to contract hay fever.

But that's how it (at least sometimes) goes.

In the United States, there are many millions of persons with hay fever who suffer annually, and know it. But the Hay Fever Prevention Society once revealed that it cannot but underestimate the number of sufferers, because there are uncounted mobs of ostrich-like personalities who bury their heads in tissues every summer and think they've got common colds.

There is no wonder that so many of us suffer from hay fever.

A single mature ragweed plant gives off unto the winds one billion pollen particles, any one of which can tickle up a sneeze in an allergic nose.

And one square mile of ragweed produces 16 tons of pollen each summer season.

Since ragweed causes 95 percent of all the hay fever in the country, it would seem a good idea to kill off the ragweed, which stretches across the rural scene and blows its potential poisons hundreds of miles into the innermost regions of the biggest cities.

But public opinion rarely becomes thoroughly enough aroused to do much about the affliction, which the Hay Fever Prevention Society described as "the neglected stepchild in medical education for more than 100 years." It is considered merely "a nuisance disease."

It is far more than that, of course. Hay fever results annually in many thousands of man-hours lost.

But the majority of Americans don't worry about this "nuisance disease" — because they don't suffer from it. And the victims who do suffer from hay fever are so miserable for three months of the year that they can't quite get up the ambition to do anything constructive to wipe it out.

Alas, hay fever is nothing to sneeze at.

But millions of us do . . .

'Nobody's Perfect'

Park Incident In Omaha

It is an unfortunate situation when a city council imposes an early curfew on a public park, thus denying to all citizens access to a place they have a right to enjoy because of the wanton disregard of community standards by a few troublemakers.

But the Omaha City Council decided it must restrict the use of Memorial Park on Dodge St. because of vandalism, sexual activity, drug use and the damage to surrounding residential areas on the part of youthful park people. Those frequenting the park in the evening hours clearly were abusing the privilege and desecrating a memorial for war dead, notwithstanding their contradictory arguments that Omaha youth have "no place to go," but even so, they would carry on such activities elsewhere if the park were closed.

Events of the past few nights proved that the Omaha council knew what the problem was and whom it was dealing with. Youths protesting the 8 p.m. curfew set by the city council have made a mockery of whatever cause they might have had.

Violence has grown worse since the park closing was ordered, prompting Omaha Mayor Gene Leahy to comment, "The law will be enforced. The assault of police officers, the interruption of the flow of traffic on streets near the park, the destruction of public property, the vandalism of private property and the assault of private citizens was inexcusable. Continuation of this activity is intolerable." So it is.

The mayor, city council and police department of Omaha, which apparently has reacted with commendable restraint under the circumstances, are to be praised for taking actions to make Memorial Park a place that can once again be enjoyed by all Omahans and not a place to be abused by a few.

We hope such a situation does not occur in Lincoln: that Lincolmites who enjoy using their parks, youthful or not, might take heed of events in Omaha.

Separate Not Equal

Black Judge William H. Hastie of Philadelphia was quoted by the United Press International as having told delegates to the NAACP national convention that recent trends of black separatism must be halted and reversed or black Americans may find themselves more deprived and discriminated against.

This is a feeling that has long been with us. The idea of separate but equal treatment of blacks is based on the conviction that there can never be integrated equality. It is no wonder that many members of the black community have this feeling but it cannot be accepted as fact.

The truth is that the only possible way of achieving equality is to have integration. To separate the black race from the white society will breed the discrimination that has been our downfall in the past.

We say this because it would be a practical impossibility to achieve a total state of separation of the races. A separate black and white economy, for instance, just is not a sensible objective. Where at least a minimum of mixing of the races would be required, a policy of separation would contribute to chaos.

The separation would bring about prejudice and misunderstanding which would produce open discrimination at any time of mixing. How could intergroup work in education, for instance, if the races were separate in all other things?

The only answer to the racial problem is to be found in a growing understanding by all people of the futility and stupidity of discrimination. When the folly and evil of this practice is finally and fully understood, then there would be no need for separation and no practice of discrimination. The answer to the problem will never be found in a separation that leads to further misunderstanding and ignorance.

Acheson Calling For Official Secrets Act; Maintains Press Should 'Police' Itself Also

WASHINGTON—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson has entered the controversy over publication of the Pentagon Papers, suggesting that an "ethical issue, or its ghost" has continued to "haunt" The New York Times. More specifically, he called for a "severe official secrets act" and a self-governing body for the press "to stimulate more ethical professional relations with the government."

Acheson's so-called "ethical question" rests on his notion that the Pentagon Papers were simply stolen items and that, as Chief Justice Burger put it, "a duty rests on taxi drivers, justices and The New York Times" to report such thefts to "responsible public officers." Acheson drew a further comparison: the Pentagon Papers, he said, were property that belong "to the United States of America as clearly as does the Battleship Missouri or the White House silver."

Now, it may seem strange to consider the duties of a justice, a taxi driver and a newspaper as one and the same, at that crucial moment when any one of them comes into possession of the Pentagon Papers. It may seem downright frivolous to compare these documents to tangible items of determinable value, like a battleship or the White House silver. But according to Acheson, it is Neil Sheehan of The Times who has violated Samuel Johnson's advice to Boswell not "to think foolishly."

Sheehan is thus dismissed for having said that the history contained in the Pentagon Papers "belongs to the people . . . they own it and have the right to know of its contents." Aside from the question whether there is not some considerable sense in which the people also own the Missouri and the White House dinner knives, the people having paid for them, the real issue here, political and ethical, is the publication of information; and the real cant is to try to suggest that the issue is instead a matter of stolen items.

Former Secretary of Defense McNamara ordered this history compiled, according to its authors, so that it might be seen where and how errors had been made and so that others might therefore profit by those errors—perhaps even avoid them. But who was to study the record—the Johnson administration? Virtually all its high officials went out of office, like Secretary of State Rusk, not knowing that the Pentagon Papers existed.

The Nixon administration? The record is clear that few of its high officials even knew the record existed, and none had studied it; it took the State Department a day or two even to locate its copy.

Congress? Sen. Fulbright's request for the study was rejected by a low-level official in the Pentagon who testified in court that he had not known the study existed until the senator asked for it.

There remain, of course, the same people who paid for the Missouri, the White House silver and Vietnam. They now know most of what was in the Pentagon record, and even their congressmen and Fulbright—as a result of the papers' publication—have been given limited access to this historical matter.

So how foolish was Sheehan's thinking, after all? As a practical matter, the people who read these documents in The Times were the first to study them; and as a theoretical matter, they are the ones for whom the history was intended in the first place. McNamara himself sought to declassify and publish them, but was overruled at the White House.

As for an official secrets act, no doubt such a law would have effectively prevented publication of the Pentagon Papers. It is not likely that comparable documents would have been published in Britain, for instance, where there is an

Minnesota Leprechaun

WASHINGTON—In the orgy of spending in the 1968 presidential election, the Minnesota leprechaun, Eugene McCarthy, came close to the record in the prenominating phase. He spent $11 million, which came in considerable part from a very few rich men and women.

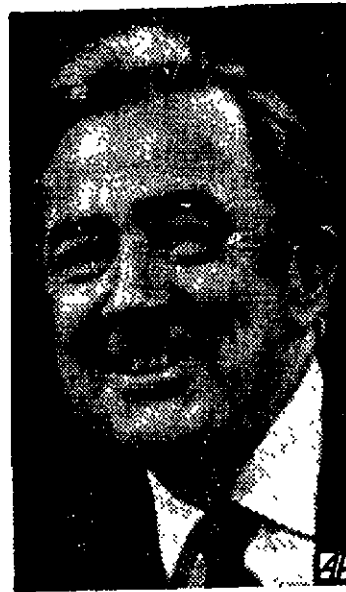

This is history, but it also happens to be more than history. For if these same rich men and women decide to back him again, McCarthy will be able to play a role in 1972. With his brilliant, impish humor, he goes about the country projecting sundry paths he may follow.

He may enter the Democratic primary in New York State. He leans toward a third party, since both the old parties are tired and corrupt. This last is the spoiler's role, and if he is bankrolled by his rich friends, he could contribute to the reelection of Richard Nixon. He has a scarcely concealed contempt for all the present Democratic hopefuls, and particularly for Sen. George McGovern, the only announced candidate. McGovern committed the unforgivable crime by allowing his name to be put before the Democratic convention in Chicago.

Judging from reports around country, much of the enthusiasm the young once felt for McCarthy has been dissipated. His ambiguities puzzle and confuse them. Was this the man we followed with such faith through the snows of New Hampshire?

But his big-money backers can still give him another inning. They are a curious company. Stewart Mott Jr. gave $210,000; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dreyfus Jr. of the Dreyfus Fund "at least" $100,000; Ellsworth T. Carrington, a Wall Street account executive

It is an interesting commentary that his father, Charles Stewart Mott, is not listed in "Who's Who," although he is one of the richest men in America and the largest holder of General Motors shares in the world. An auto pioneer in Flint, Mich., he sold out in 1910 for $11,000,000 in stock in the company that was ultimately to become General Motors. The decision made by head coach Devaney in the Rogers case could not have been an easy one. The entire matter will be subject to heated discussion and sober thought for years, over a wide area.

We have a proud heritage of great people spawned in this state. We have provided world leaders in many fields and on many fronts. There was a time when we played football for fun, and not in the hired mercenary field. Yes, we survived those cruel years of football anonymity, those character-building years. Will we be able to look back on these present years with a clear conscience?

John Rogers, an adult, chose to violate the law. He did not have to do so, by his own admission. I am sure he is sorry, as all law-breakers are (first offenders or more) because he got caught. Even the heroworshippers should agree that he should suffer some penalty, that he should not continue, shoulder to shoulder with those who choose to abide by the laws.

Can the courts now, with this precedent established, rewrite the law to the effect that first offenders in armed robbery, a felony, will not be prosecuted? I doubt they would go so far.

This is a matter of conscience and of what is right and fair. Are we being truly impartial? Are we even helping Mr. Rogers—or the Nebraska football team? The jury will be out on these questions for years to come.

Change Of Rules

Wilber, Neb.

Much has been said to the effect that a rule is a rule, and must be obeyed and that to disregard a rule is to infringe on someone else's rights or property. I can't help but feel that the ruling on haircuts is an infringement on the rights and property of one, and only one, generation—our very valuable younger set. These are not rules of safety or health where injury could result.

These boys are not breaking the rules. They have not even been given the chance. Most of them have conformed (nasty word). The infringement on rights and property appears to me to be more an infringement on an older generation's likes and dislikes.

Who gave the National American Legion council the right to dictate the wearing of mustaches and sideburns or the style of hair to a generation they do not even belong to, on the simple whim of a dislike for what they are now wearing?

However the words "deceit" and "misled" may be deplored, even cursory examination of the Pentagon Papers discloses how little successive administrations told the public. From the U-2 incident to Cambodia, the record of those administrations is replete with dissembling, sophistries and outright lies. As far back as 1949, even Acheson "propagated myths" about Chinese-American relations, according to recent testimony before the Foreign Relations Committee by Allen Whiting of the Center for Chinese Studies at the University of Yet, here is a formula that would give the government immensely greater power to make and keep secrets, while the press was policing itself against "publishing material ethically undesirable." Samuel Johnson would know what to say to that: "The mass of every people must be barbarous where there is no printing."

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

When the whole issue between State Senator Ernest Chambers and Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler is sifted through, you have the feeling that the two are not so far apart as the issues as they are in personalities. There is considerable agreement between them that improvements in the Nebraska penal system are needed.

Chambers, however, feels that improvement will never come with Sigler or anyone like him. On the other side, Sigler naturally takes issue with this and the record tends to back him up, even though no one might attribute perfection to him.

Possibly, Sigler would rely somewhat more than might be necessary on theories and principles of discipline but Chambers, we believe, would err at least as heavily in the other direction. Additionally, we go along with Sigler when he says that Chambers, so far, has talked mainly to the known trouble-makers in the penitentiary.

If things are wrong at the reformatory and penitentiary, however, why has Sigler not done anything about it if he agrees that such is the case? Sigler has done a lot already on the side of rehabilitation and improved custodial care of the inmates and this is the personal philosophy of the man.

This is why we think Chambers is unfair in his criticism of the Sigler administration. But Sigler has not done more for one simple reason — the state of Nebraska has not wanted to do more.

It is such an old and tired story that we are almost sick of telling it but maybe if it is repeated often enough, someone will begin to listen. First off, the people of Nebraska, meaning its political leadership and its electorate, have not bought a modern concept of penology.

A penitentiary and reformatory, along with other correctional institutions, are viewed by Nebraskans as places of punishment, as places to separate criminals from the rest of society for the safety of that society. Unfortunately, this is only one part of the purpose of such institutions.

It is no longer even a major part but it is still the dominant thinking in Nebraska. Therefore, when you propose the erection of new and modern facilities, the inauguration of advanced rehabilitation programs, the upgrading of professional staff and other changes, you are told that a penitentiary is not supposed to be a penthouse.

You are reminded that no one put the inmates in those institutions; they are there because they chose to break the law. You are told about the evils of coddling prisoners and even reminded of so-called Biblical incantations of an eye for an eye.

You get, in short, all the fuzzy thinking, prejudice and plain old stupidity that have for far too long held sway in the correctional system of the entire nation. No less a figure than President Nixon himself has placed the modernization and upgrading of our prisons in the highest of priority ratings.

But the people want revenge and they have so little appreciation or understanding of the tremendous sociological factors associated with the world of crime. If they can't comprehend the concept of rehabilitation, then they certainly will never support it with tax dollars.

What a modern penal approach has to recognize is that there are, basically, two kinds of people to deal with — those who can and will respond to opportunity and those who will not. For the latter, a cell with bars and stern discipline is the only answer.

For the former, something entirely different is needed. Chambers, we feel, fails to differentiate between the two, even though he is correct in his assessment of many of the existing shortcomings.

The matter of segregation of prisoners is a delicate one, relating as much as anything else, perhaps, to the equality of treatment rather than the separation of individuals. We are not prepared to approve of total integration in the penitentiary, simply because the moral and human factors there are not the same as they are in society in general.

Chambers can contribute immeasurably to the achievement of the improvements we need in Nebraska if he maintains a balanced and impersonal attitude in his work. Nebraska's correctional system does need to change but that is no indictment of Sigler, a man who has done his share to make things better and to put the spotlight on continuing shortcomings.

Hay Fever Nothing To Be Sneezed At

subject is the ever-popular malady of the pharmaceutical firms: hay fever.

Pertains you are thinking of turning away from this subject, because you surmise it has nothing to do with you. Your nose may be as dry as an unhealthy dog's.

But don't be hasty. This is a reminder that hay fever is a very sneaky element, often creeping up and assaulting a nose quite late in life. One year your proboscis may be quite normal—and the next Thursday, about noon, suddenly all small breaks loose.

In other words, people who have lived 45 years without hay fever may rather abruptly, in mid-age, develop an angry tickling sensation in the nostrils and find that it has come to roost until Labor Day.

I speak from experience, as one who is only lately realizing that, as senility approacheth, so caneth pollen. It does not seem quite civilized to have romped, dry-nosed, through the carefree years of youth and then—in the prime of life, having learned to care for one's health and keep the nose powdered and eyes mascara'd—to contract hay fever.

But that's how it (at least sometimes) goes. In the United States, there are many millions of persons with hay fever who suffer annually, and know it. But the Hay Fever Prevention Society once revealed that it cannot but underestimate the number of sufferers, because there are uncounted mobs of ostrich-like personalities who bury their heads in tissues every summer and think they've got common colds.

There is no wonder that so many of us suffer from hay fever:

A single mature ragweed plant gives off into the winds one billion pollen particles, any one of which can tickle up a sneeze in an allergic nose.

And one square mile of ragweed produces 16 tons of pollen each summer season.

Since ragweed causes 95 percent of all the hay fever in the country, it would seem a good idea to kill off the ragweed, which stretches across the rural scene and blows its potential poisons hundreds of miles into the innermost regions of the biggest cities.

But public opinion rarely becomes thoroughly enough aroused to do much about the affliction, which the Hay Fever Prevention Society described as "the neglected stepchild in medical education for more than 100 years." It is considered merely "a nuisance disease."

It is far more than that, of course. Hay fever results annually in many thousands of man-hours lost. But the majority of Americans don't worry about this "nuisance disease" — because they don't suffer from it.

And the victims who do suffer from hay fever are so miserable for three months of the year that they can't quite get up the ambition to do anything constructive to wipe it out.

Alas, hay fever is nothing to sneeze at.

But millions of us do . . . Dist. by King Features Synd.

Park Incident In Omaha

It is an unfortunate situation when a city council imposes an early curfew on a public park, thus denying to all citizens access to a place they have a right to enjoy because of the wanton disregard of community standards by a few troublemakers.

But the Omaha City Council decided it must restrict the use of Memorial Park on Dodge St. because of vandalism, sexual activity, drug use and the damage to surrounding residential areas on the part of youthful park people. Those frequenting the park in the evening hours clearly were abusing the privilege and desecrating a memorial for war dead, notwithstanding their contradictory arguments that Omaha youth have "no place to go," but even so, they would carry on such activities elsewhere if the park were closed.

Events of the past few nights proved that the Omaha council knew what the problem was and whom it was dealing with. Youths protesting the 8 p.m. curfew set by the city council have made a mockery of whatever cause they might have had.

Violence has grown worse since the park closing was ordered, prompting Omaha Mayor Gene Leahy to comment, "The law will be enforced. The assault of police officers, the interruption of the flow of traffic on streets near the park, the destruction of public property, the vandalism of private property and the assault of private citizens was inexcusable. Continuation of this activity is intolerable." So it is.

The mayor, city council and police department of Omaha, which apparently has reacted with commendable restraint under the circumstances, are to be praised for taking actions to make Memorial Park a place that can once again be enjoyed by all Omahans and not a place to be abused by a few.

We hope such a situation does not occur in Lincoln; that Lincolinites who enjoy using their parks, youthful or not, might take heed of events in Omaha.

Separate Not Equal

Black Judge William H. Hastie of Philadelphia was quoted by the United Press International as having told delegates to the NAACP national convention that recent trends of black separatism must be halted and reversed or black Americans may find themselves more deprived and discriminated against.

This is a feeling that has long been with us. The idea of separate but equal treatment of blacks is based on the conviction that there can never be integrated equality. It is no wonder that many members of the black community have this feeling but it cannot be accepted as fact.

The truth is that the only possible way of achieving equality is to have integration. To separate the black race from the white society will breed the discrimination that has been our downfall in the past.

We say this because it would be a practical impossibility to achieve a total state of separation of the races. A separate black and white economy, for instance, just is not a sensible objective. Where at least a minimum of mixing of the races would be required, a policy of separation would contribute to chaos.

The separation would bring about prejudice and misunderstanding which would produce open discrimination at any time of mixing. How could intergroup work in education, for instance, if the races were separate in all other things?

The only answer to the racial problem is to be found in a growing understanding by all people of the futility and stupidity of discrimination. When the folly and evil of this practice is finally and fully understood, then there would be no need for separation and no practice of discrimination. The answer to the problem will never be found in a separation that leads to further misunderstanding and ignorance.

Shortly after Hubert Humphrey's nomination at the unhappy Democratic convention in Chicago, he received a communication from Mott's group. In effect, as Humphrey and his campaign strategists interpreted that letter, it was a demand that he change his foreign policy in return for money from this company of wealthy backers. The occasion for considerable indignation in the Humphrey camp, no meeting with the McCarthy money men took place even though the Democratic candidate was desperate for funds.

In March of this year, Joseph Califano, currently counsel for the Democratic National Committee, cited the Mott letter, as quoted in Fortune magazine, as an example of the way big money is used to try to pressure candidates to take one position or another. Mott, in an indignant response sent to the Senate committee conducting hearings into a fair election bill, denied he had tried to compel Humphrey to adopt his own McCarthyite Vietnam policy. He said he was a registered Republican who would never, so long as the Democrats sought to suppress a free exchange of ideas and keep contributors from using their money in politics, give another dime to the national committee.

McCarthy says he is speaking around the country trying to bring about election reforms. This is all to the good and he is still a draw.

But it begs the question of the corruption of big money. Big-money givers like Mott believe they are serving the angels in reforming corrupt America. Exon Hasn't Decided On Size Of Pay Hikes

Gov. J. James Exon has not yet reached a firm decision on the level of state employee salary increases he will recommend to the 1972 Legislature, his administrative assistant said Thursday.

Exon presumably will direct departments under his control to build a specified salary hike into their budget requests for fiscal 1972-73.

"That decision has not yet been made," Norman Otto said.

Governor Away
The governor was out of the Capital City and unavailable for comment.

Exon's recommendation will provide the first signal as to whether the state is likely to respond to newly revised salary scales recommended by state personnel officers.

The pay plan proposed in 1970 has been updated to reflect changing economic conditions with the result that proposed salary increases for inflationary costs have been somewhat reduced.

Personnel consultants last fall reported that 14,362 fulltime state employees covered by the personnel system would need salary hikes totaling $6,150,000 to reach the average prevailing wage scale in the competitive labor market.

5% Hike Suggested
A 5% inflationary hike was also recommended for the 1971-73 fiscal biennium, at an estimated cost of $4,618,600.

The newly revised proposal reduces the 5% figure to 4.75% in the lower pay scale classifications. That figure is reduced proportionately for higher salary classifications until it reaches 3% for the highest scale.

The 1972 Legislature will be the final judge of state employee salary levels, reaching its decision after the governor produces his recommendation.

Exon recommended—and the Legislature approved — an average $300 wage hike for state employees during the current fiscal year.

Hilton, Lincoln Hotel Connection Rumored

Bennett S. (Abe) Martin could not be contacted Thursday for comment on rumors that his Lincoln Hotel might be renovated and linked with a new high-rise Lincoln Hilton Hotel to be constructed in the same block.

A person who answered the phone at Martin's home said she didn't think Martin wanted to make any comment on the rumors at this time.

James Philon of the Hilton Hotels Corp. in Beverly Hills, Calif., did confirm Thursday that Vernon Herndon of the Hilton Chicago office had been in Lincoln to look at a hotel. Philon said he did not know what property Herndon had looked at or what type of hotel arrangement was being discussed.

He said Herndon was out of his office Thursday, but could be contacted in Chicago for more information Friday or early next week.

Earlier, it was reported that Gregory Dillon of the Hilton Hotels Corp. in Beverly Hills, Calif., had said that Herndon went to Lincoln at the request of Martin to look over the hotel.

Red Cross Swimming Aides To Be Allowed Free Passes

The Lincoln Park and Recreation Board's consensus Thursday afternoon was that Red Cross volunteer swimming aides should be allowed to use their free swimming passes at city pools.

The board was told by a Red Cross representative Arth Huhman that the passes are issued to the approximately 60 volunteer swimming aides that help the 22 salaried Red Cross instructors. Huhman said the aides earn the passes for each three hours of volunteer instruction they give.

Park and Recreation Director Don Smith said that he had suspended the privilege earlier this summer because he felt that it was not right for somebody else to issue a pass to a city pool and that such a practice would open up the city pools to every group conducting volunteer swimming classes.

Due to a lack of a quorum, Board Chairman Bill Dobler said that the matter would be submitted to the swimming pool committee to let them work it out with the Red Cross for next summer but that for this summer it was the consensus of the board that the policy of free passes be continued.

Dobler said that the passes from now on would have the name of the proper ticket holder printed on them and that the tickets would be marked "non-transferrable."

The Recreation Department gave a summary of June attendance figures that showed a total attendance of 314,831 people. The Recreation Department gave the following breakdown in their report:

- Cultural arts — 345
- Handicapped — 1,066
- Drama and music — 2,262
- Senior citizens — 1,896
- Men's athletics — 8,485
- Softball — 24,014
- Woman's athletics — 7,488
- O Street Center — 2,322
- Arnold Heights Center — 1,914
- F Street Center — 2,296
- Easterday Center — 6,600
- Special activities — 118,475
- Pools — 133,368

Special activities included the Keen Time Kouncil and Dance, Nine Hi Council and Dance and several other activities. The largest draw was 113,721 people using the playgrounds.

Exon Hasn't Decided On Size Of Pay Hikes

Gov. J. James Exon has not yet reached a firm decision on the level of state employee salary increases he will recommend to the 1972 Legislature, his administrative assistant said Thursday.

Exon presumably will direct departments under his control to build a specified salary hike into their budget requests for fiscal 1972-73.

"That decision has not yet been made," Norman Otto said.

Governor Away

The governor was out of the Capital City and unavailable for comment.

Exon's recommendation will provide the first signal as to whether the state is likely to respond to newly revised salary scales recommended by state personnel officers.

The pay plan proposed in 1970 has been updated to reflect changing economic conditions with the result that proposed salary increases for inflationary costs have been somewhat reduced.

Personnel consultants last fall reported that 14,362 fulltime state employees covered by the personnel system would need salary hikes totaling $6,150,000 to reach the average prevailing wage scale in the competitive labor market.

5% Hike Suggested

A 5% inflationary hike was also recommended for the 1971-73 fiscal biennium, at an estimated cost of $4,618,600.

The newly revised proposal reduces the 5% figure to 4.75% in the lower pay scale classifications. That figure is reduced proportionately for higher salary classifications until it reaches 3% for the highest scale.

The 1972 Legislature will be the final judge of state employee salary levels, reaching its decision after the governor produces his recommendation.

Exon recommended—and the Legislature approved — an average $300 wage hike for state employees during the current fiscal year.

Hilton, Lincoln Hotel Connection Rumored

Bennett S. (Abe) Martin could not be contacted Thursday for comment on rumors that his Lincoln Hotel might be renovated and linked with a new high-rise Lincoln Hilton Hotel to be constructed in the same block.

A person who answered the phone at Martin's home said she didn't think Martin wanted to make any comment on the rumors at this time.

James Philon of the Hilton Hotels Corp. in Beverly Hills, Calif., did confirm Thursday that Vernon Herndon of the Hilton Chicago office had been in Lincoln to look at a hotel.

Philon said he did not know what property Herndon had looked at or what type of hotel arrangement was being discussed.

He said Herndon, but out of his office Thursday, but could be contacted in Chicago for more information Friday or early next week.

Earlier, it was reported that Gregory Dillon of the Hilton Hotels Corp. in Beverly Hills, Calif., had said that Herndon went to Lincoln at the request of Martin to look over the hotel.

Red Cross Swimming Aides To Be Allowed Free Passes

The Lincoln Park and Recreation Board's consensus Thursday afternoon was that Red Cross volunteer swimming aides should be allowed to use their free swimming passes at city pools.

The board was told by a Red Cross representative Arth Hillman that the passes are issued to the approximately 60 volunteer swimming aides that help the 22 salaried Red Cross instructors. Hillman said the aides earn the passes for each three hours of volunteer instruction they give.

Park and Recreation Director Don Smith said that he had suspended the privilege earlier this summer because he felt that it was not right for somebody else to issue a pass to a city pool and that such a practice would open up the city pools to every group conducting volunteer swimming classes.

Due to a lack of a quorum, Board Chairman Bill Dobler said that the matter would be submitted to the swimming pool committee to let them work it out with the Red Cross for next summer but that for this summer it was the consensus of the board that the policy of free passes be continued.

Dobler said that the passes from now on would have the name of the proper ticket holder printed on them and that the tickets would be marked "non-transferrable."

The Recreation Department gave a summary of June attendance figures that showed a total attendance of 314,831 people. The Recreation Department gave the following breakdown in their report:

- Cultural arts — 345.
- Handicapped — 1,066.
- Drama and music — 2,262.
- Senior citizens — 1,896.
- Men's athletics — 8,485.

- F Street Center — 4,396.
- Easterday Center — 8,600.
- Special activities — 116,475.
- Pools — 133,369.

Special activities included the Keen Time Council and Dance, Nine Hi Council and Dance and several other activities. The largest draw was 113,721 people using the playgrounds.

U.S. Military Shipments To Pakistan Not Stopped

Washington (AP) — An American official said Thursday a single State Department telephone call to customs authorities could stop further U.S. military shipments to Pakistan.

"As of now," he added, "no such stop order is in the works."

The informant was discussing the Nixon administration's controversial policy of keeping open its pipeline of military aid to Pakistan at a time of civil insurrection in the Eastern segment of that South Asian country.

His statement meant it is deliberate U.S. policy at this time to go on trickling military aid to President Yahya Khan's regime. The administration hopes thereby to preserve the option of resuming military collaboration on a bigger scale should Pakistan's internal situation quiet.

Chinese Feared

One reason, according to the informant, is that Pakistan now is obtaining most of its arms from Red China. The United States wants to insure that Pakistan's reliance on Peking does not become permanent.

U.S. authorities have noted some Chinese activity among the East Pakistan rebels even while Peking officially has been backing President Yahya.

The informant said: "We are currently engaged in an inter-departmental review of all the factors involved in continuing U.S. military and other aid to Pakistan. It may take weeks before final conclusions emerge."

A major element in that review is Dr. Henry Kissinger's talks with Pakistan's leader. Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser on national security affairs, arrived in Rawalpindi Thursday from New Delhi where he had discussed the East Pakistan situation with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

U.S. Goals

In both capitals the United States has been stressing three policy aims:

—To insure both India and Pakistan exercise great restraint in a crisis that could engulf the entire Indian subcontinent.

—To encourage a political settlement of the feud between East and West Pakistan.

—To arrange for the safety and repatriation of the estimated six million East Pakistanis who have crossed into India.

Meanwhile American suppliers are free to go on shipping new military equipment ordered by Pakistan and licensed by the United States before March 25. That was the day the administration banned further licensing of military goods for Pakistan. The ban followed the assault by West Pakistan's army on the autonomy-seeking rebels of the East.

Arms' Value Contested

Administration officials have said military orders still outstanding for Pakistan are small in value and in lethal significance. But they have refused to put a value on these orders beyond saying there could be four or five more shiploads.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, claimed in a speech Wednesday about $25 million worth of equipment still is in the pipeline. State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray commented Thursday that this estimate seemed high.

The administration policy review also covers economic aid for Pakistan. The United States belongs to an 11-nation consortium which coordinates help for the near-bankrupt country. Pakistani pleas for emergency aid have yet to be answered by the group. It is awaiting an over-all new plan for the country's development and recovery.

The consortium expects to make its decision around September. They hope, by then, a process of reconciliation between East and West Pakistanis will be underway — and that President Yahya will have guaranteed that the international Easterners with no strings.

Rogers Sees No Possibility Of Japanese Nuclear Force

Washington (UPI) — The State Department said Thursday, in a statement cleared by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, that "we know of no responsible body of opinion in Japan or the United States" that favors or foresees the possibility of future Japanese deployment of nuclear weapons.

The statement was issued after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's discussions with Japanese leaders gave rise to reports from Tokyo that the United States might not object if Japan deploys its own nuclear weapons.

One account quoted unnamed American officials in Tokyo as saying that Chinese missile progress and restraints on U.S. nuclear weapons development from an arms control agreement with the Soviet Union might lead Japan to become a nuclear power in the early 1980s.

Authorities said Thursday that the reports of Laird's position stemmed from a briefing given by his press officer at the American embassy.

The State Department was understood to have asked the embassy for the full text of briefing.

The department offered to give Laird a briefing on the political connotations of Japanese defense policy before he left for Tokyo, but Laird did not take advantage of the offer.

As for possible limitations on the U.S. nuclear force which might result from arms control talks with Russia, the State Department said:

"Japan need have no concern regarding the validity of our nuclear deterrent. President Nixon made this clear in his foreign policy report to Congress this year and last year. Nothing this year and last year. Nothing that is being discussed at SALT will affect our ability or our determination to carry out this policy."

British Troops Kill Two Men In Irish Riots

Londonderry, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops fired twice into rioting mobs Thursday, killing two men and wounding a third.

Fighting that turned the Roman Catholic Bogside district into a battlefield continued after dark with hundreds of youths lobbing gasoline and nail bombs from behind paving stone barricades at patrolling troops. Crowds of spectators cheered the youths on.

The British army announced it was bringing 500 more soldiers into Northern Ireland, increasing the troop strength to 11,100. The unit is the King's Own Scottish Borders, now serving in Scotland.

Tension mounted with the approaching 12th of July celebrations by the Protestant Orangemen, marking the victory by Protestant King William III over Catholic King James II at the Battle of the Boyne in 1690.

on a tour of the shops

In this "Age of the Apartment" it seems that there never is enough space to store and stash certain necessities. With thousands of newlyweds renting apartments each year, and so many families leaving their homes to become apartment dwellers, we decided that there was a need for attractive ways to store extra household items — in addition to the many ideas that can be obtained from a visit to the neighborhood lumber or hardware shop or the housewares department in most any store.

So off we went on our tour of the shops to look for both finished and unfinished furniture that are great for storage.

AT DAVIDSON'S

The custom room plan — with many separate pieces that you can mix and match — is a perfect way to display, or hide, many of your possessions. The pieces we saw have a maple-nutmeg finish, and some have shuttered doors that cover up your television, records or storage — and on top is an open book shelf or display shelf. Other pieces have shelves, drawers, china cupboards, corner desks, extension tables, or a stereo cabinet with storage space and a speaker compartment. All of these pieces are in an Early American finish.

At Davidson's we also found a low two-drawer accessory table in antique green — it doubles as a small end table and a place to stash smaller things — and then there was the round three-tier stand for plants, figurines, or what have you.

We just loved the roll top desk with drawers and pigeon holes and another desk that has built-in space for a portable typewriter.

And then there was the etagere in pine that rested on a stack of closed-in shelves.

Other great stashing and storing ideas we found at Davidson's include a stack of stools, a planter that hangs on a letter rack, a spice rack, spoon rack with a planter, and a unique three-tier letter rack.

AT ARMSTRONG'S

We found that furniture designers are including nooks and crannies for storage in the most unlikely places. An Early American end table disclosed one slim end-drawer atop a deep drawer, that is actually a file cabinet — and it comes complete with lock and key! Another wood unit is the cassette holder. This is a top open shelf for the cassette tape-deck and speakers which is placed above three drawers that open to reveal dividers — spaced, of course, so that they accommodate the maxi tape collection.

Any man who likes order and neatness in his life belongs with the 70-inch high Spanish armoire. Its double doors reveal a tie rack and mirror on inside doors and neat sections for shirts. Lower drawers allow ample space for other apparel.

Nowdays end tables do much more than hold lamps. We discovered a Mozambique wood storage cabinet that scoots neatly beneath an end table of two solid wood sides and a clear glass top . . . or both pieces go it alone.

A delightful multipurpose storage cube is a bright red "campaign cube" that serves as a seating unit to discreetly encase a record collection, toy box, or what have you.

Another storage unit is a wood chest that has comfortable black vinyl seating atop inside compartments with removable dividers.

AT LEONARD'S HOUSE OF COLOR

It is very likely that many newlyweds will be just getting on their feet financially, and will want to consider the more economical ways to both furnish their apartment and provide additional storage space. The unfinished furniture at Leonard's House of Color is appropriate not only for the newly married, but for those who wish to add a touch of their own creativity to their decor.

Once you have determined the period of furniture, whether it be French provincial, Italian, Early American, modern or the popular Spanish-Mediterranean, you can begin to plan what unfurnished pieces and colors or stains will provide the best storage for your needs.

Wall units are not only attractive, but because of the multitude of available units, can provide just the thing you are seeking. Shelves for books, sliding or hinged door cabinets, a drop lid desk, a chest of drawers, a desk with drawers, and a magazine rack which may be attached to the wall standards. These are available in solid oak, solid birch, solid walnut or solid hemlock, and then can be antiqued or stained to blend with our decor.

Unfinished deacon benches serve beautifully as toy chests or storage lockers.

Every housewife knows there is no such thing as too much kitchen space, and an Early American corner cabinet would fit neatly in that extra nook to store less frequently used dishes or extra can goods.

on a tour of the shops

In this "Age of the Apartment" it seems that there never is enough space to store and stash certain necessities. With thousands of newlyweds renting apartments each year, and so many families leaving their homes to become apartment dwellers, we decided that there was a need for attractive ways to store extra household items — in addition to the many ideas that can be obtained from a visit to the neighborhood lumber or hardware shop or the housewares department in most any store.

So off we went on our tour of the shops to look for both finished and unfinished furniture that are great for storage.

AT DAVIDSON'S

The custom room plan — with many separate pieces that you can mix and match — is a perfect way to display, or hide, many of your possessions. The pieces we saw have a maple-nutmeg finish, and some have shuttered doors that cover up your television, records or storage — and on top is an open book shelf or display shelf. Other pieces have shelves, drawers, china cupboards, corner desks, extension tables, or a stereo cabinet with storage space and a speaker compartment. All of these pieces are in an Early American finish.

At Davidson's we also found a low two-drawer accessory table in antique green — it doubles as a small end table and a place to stash smaller things — and then there was the round three-tier stand for plants, figurines, or what have you.

We just loved the roll top desk with drawers and pigeon holes and another desk that has built-in space for a portable typewriter.

And then there was the etagere in pine that rested on a stack of closed-in shelves.

Other great stashing and storing ideas we found at Davidson's include a stack of stools, a planter that hangs on a letter rack, a spice rack, spoon rack with a planter, and a unique three-tier letter rack.

AT ARMSTRONG'S

We found that furniture designers are including nooks and crannies for storage in the most unlikely places. An Early American end table disclosed one slim end-drawer atop a deep drawer, that is actually a file cabinet — and it comes complete with lock and key! Another wood unit is the cassette holder. This is a top open shelf for the cassette tape-deck and speakers which is placed above three drawers that open to reveal dividers — spaced, of course, so that they accommodate the maxi tape collection.

Any man who likes order and neatness in his life belongs with the 70-inch high Spanish armoire. Its double doors reveal a tie rack and mirror on inside doors and neat sections for shirts. Lower drawers allow ample space for other apparel.

Nowdays end tables do much more than hold lamps. We discovered a Mozambique wood storage cabinet that scoots neatly beneath an end table of two solid wood sides and a clear glass top . . . or both pieces go it alone.

A delightful multipurpose storage cube is a bright red "campaign cube" that serves as a seating unit to discreetly encase a record collection, toy box, or what have you.

Another storage unit is a wood chest that has comfortable black vinyl seating atop inside compartments with removable dividers.

AT LEONARD'S HOUSE OF COLOR

It is very likely that many newlyweds will be just getting on their feet financially, and will want to consider the more economical ways to both furnish their apartment and provide additional storage space. The unfinished furniture at Leonard's House of Color is appropriate not only for the newly married, but for those who wish to add a touch of their own creativity to their decor.

Once you have determined the period of furniture, whether it be French provincial, Italian, Early American, modern or the popular Spanish-Mediterranean, you can begin to plan what unfurnished pieces and colors or stains will provide the best storage for your needs.

Wall units are not only attractive, but because of the multitude of available units, can provide just the thing you are seeking. Shelves for books, sliding or hinged door cabinets, a drop lid desk, a chest of drawers, a desk with drawers, and a magazine rack which may be attached to the wall standards. These are available in solid oak, solid birch, solid walnut or solid hemlock, and then can be antiqued or stained to blend with our decor.

Unfinished deacon benches serve beautifully as toy chests or storage lockers.

Every housewife knows there is no such thing as too much kitchen space, and an Early American corner cabinet would fit neatly in that extra nook to store less frequently used dishes or extra can goods.

Good morning:

Summer is the season when most families plan their vacations and travels. While we primarily devote this column to exploration of the arts in Lincoln, we also hope to create greater interest in the fine and performing arts in general.

For this reason, we hope that our readers who do plan summer vacations also will plan to explore the artistic offerings in the cities that they are visiting.

There are many approaches to discovering the contents of a city's best endeavors. Most often, the daily newspaper will run a summary of things to do and places to see. If your interest lies in a specific area, the local Chamber of Commerce is certain to be able to provide some worthwhile information, as well as some hints as to the less popular spots that may be well worth your while.

The advantage of patronizing the arts in other cities is dual. There is, of course, the personal enlightenment of the learning experience. The second advantage is more encompassing, and that is the new ideas that we might bring back to our own city to further enhance local efforts.

Have a happy and safe trip. And when you are in Lincoln, please join us.

ON THE ROOF . . . Who else but the fiddler, from the renowned Broadway musical, "Fiddler On The Roof", which will open this evening at the Pinewood Bowl outdoor amphitheatre. Sponsored by the Lincoln Civic Singfest Committee, the four-day run is directed by John R. Wilson. This delightful family tale will pry at the heart of all age groups. Showtime is 8:30, Friday through Monday. (A new sound system will even further enhance your enjoyment.)

IN REPERTORY . . . The Nebraska Repertory Theatre at the Howell Theatre will open its second production, "We Bombed In New Haven", this evening. A new comedy by Joseph Heller, author of the novel "Catch 22", the play's leading roles are performed by Richard Brown as the Major, Clive Rosengren as Starkey, and Laura Ursdevenicz as Ruth. This production will be performed July 9-10, 12, 13, 16, 22, 24, 28, 30, August 3, 9, 13, 21.

HAPPILY EVER AFTER . . . The musical production of "I Do! I Do!" is the second production of the Cabaret Theatre at the East Hills Supper Club. Beverly and Joe Miller assume the roles of a happily married couple, Agnes and Michael, over a span of fifty years. The show will be produced Friday through Saturday, July 9-10, and Thursday through Saturday, the weekends of July 29, August 5 and 26. "The Mikado" will be produced the weekends of July 15, 22, August 12 and 19.

FOR THE YOUNG AT HEART . . . Abstract motifs are now on display at the Cengas Building at 12th and N Streets. The show is featuring the works of Barbara Henderson, and Judy Greenwood in a wide variety of watercolors, acrylics, prints, drawings and batiks. Children will specially enjoy the exhibit, which is now open and continues through August.

CURTAIN CALL . . . AT THE CHILDREN'S ZOO . . . shows for children in the Birdcage Theatre at 1 o'clock and 2 o'clock, today, Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday afternoons.

BROWNVILLE VILLAGE THEATRE . . . "Plaza Suite" will be produced at 8 o'clock on Friday and Sunday evenings; "Because Their Hearts Were Pure", on Saturday evening July 10 at 8 o'clock; and "The Matchmaker" at the Sunday matinee, 2:30, July 11.

Abby: let your husband handle money

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am always in debt and can't seem to get out. I don't know what to call myself except "stupid," maybe.

My husband makes a good living, but the only things that get paid on time are the rent and the utilities because he pays them. I write checks for everything else and also do a lot of charging. Right now I am overdrawn at the bank, have several unpaid bills staring me in the face and I am scared to death to tell my husband.

I am not extravagant with myself. It's usually something for the children or the house. This is nothing new, I have always been behind in my bills, but this time I can't see my way clear. I'm ready for a nervous breakdown. Is there a solution? I will try anything.

OVER MY HEAD

DEAR OVER: First I will tell you what NOT to do. Don't borrow any money without your husband's knowledge! Then close your charge accounts, hand your husband your check book and tell him about the mess you're in. If he doesn't immediately remove you from the treasury department, resign! You can learn how to budget if you really want to, but until you do, let Hubby handle the family fortune.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him "John") has had a close friendship with a man I'll call "Mike." They went thru school together. The only difference between them is that John grew up on the wrong side of the tracks. When John and I were married two years ago, Mike was our best man — that's how close they were.

Well, Mike is getting married, and we are not even invited to the wedding!

Mike told John that it wasn't his doing as the bride's family puts on the wedding and they are limiting the number of guests. The bride's parents are well-to-do, so that's hard to believe, isn't it? Also, John already had started making plans for a stag in Mike's honor.

I can't understand it. We are respectable people and know how to dress and conduct ourselves. I don't care about myself, but I know how hurt John is. Do we have to send them a wedding present anyway? What can I say to make John feel better?

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The less said, the better. Even tho the bride's family puts on the wedding, the groom is allowed a certain number of invitations, "limited" as they might be. And no one has to send a gift unless he wants to.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Read Parade. You'll enjoy the entertaining and informative articles in this big magazine section of the "Sunday Journal and Star."

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts and North leads the six of hearts. How would you play the hand?

♠ 10 7 3 ♠ A K Q
♥ Q J 10 5 2 ♥ A 9 8 4
♦ J 6 ♦ K 10 9
♣ A 5 4 ♣ K 7 2

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the queen of spades, which you duck, and continues with the jack, which you win, South following suit. When you lead the king of hearts, South takes the ace and returns a heart to your queen. How would you now play the hand?

♠ A K 7 4 ♠ 6 5 2
♥ K Q J ♥ 10 7 4
♦ K 9 3 ♦ A 6 5
♣ A K J ♣ 9 4 3 2

1. You can't be sure of the outcome, but the method of play that stands out a mile is to win the heart with the ace and assuming that South follows (low on the ace) return a low diamond to the jack.

If the diamonds are divided normally, that is, 4-4 or 3-3, you are home. If the jack loses to the queen and a club comes back you win and continue with a diamond, thus establishing a diamond trick in dummy to take care of your club loser.

If you were to take a heart finesse on the opening lead and lose to the king, you would be courting defeat. The danger is that South would win and shift to a club, in which case the contract would fail if the A-Q of diamonds were both badly placed or if you misguessed the location of the ace and queen.

You should be unwilling to subject yourself to such a guess when there is a perfectly simple way of avoiding it.

2. You have eight tricks and need a ninth. The problem is whether to enter dummy with a diamond and take a club finesse, or whether to play the A-K-J of clubs, hoping either to catch the doubleton queen or ten or to find the suit divided 3-3.

The finesse offers about an even chance of success, while playing the A-K-J of clubs in succession will succeed about two-thirds of the time. Refusing the finesse is consequently the better percentage play. Even though it is true that percentage plays don't always bring home the bacon, they are nevertheless far more reliable guides than anti-percentage plays or out-and-out hunches.

Abby: let your husband handle money

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am always in debt and can't seem to get out. I don't know what to call myself except "stupid," maybe.

My husband makes a good living, but the only things that get paid on time are the rent and the utilities because he pays them. I write checks for everything else and also do a lot of charging. Right now I am overdrawn at the bank, have several unpaid bills staring me in the face and I am scared to death to tell my husband.

I am not extravagant with myself. It's usually something for the children or the house. This is nothing new, I have always been behind in my bills, but this time I can't see my way clear. I'm ready for a nervous breakdown. Is there a solution? I will try anything.

OVER MY HEAD
DEAR ABBY: First I will tell you what NOT to do. Don't borrow any money without your husband's knowledge! Then close your charge accounts, hand your husband your check book and tell him about the mess you're in. If he doesn't immediately remove you from the treasury department, resign! You can learn how to budget if you really want to, but until you do, let Hubby handle the family fortune.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him "John") has had a close friendship with a man I'll call "Mike." They went thru school together. The only difference between them is that John grew up on the wrong side of the tracks. When John and I were married two years ago, Mike was our best man — that's how close they were.

Well, Mike is getting married, and we are not even invited to the wedding!

Mike told John that it wasn't his doing as the bride's family puts on the wedding and they are limiting the number of guests. The bride's parents are well-to-do, so that's hard to believe, isn't it? Also, John already had started making plans for a stag in Mike's honor.

I can't understand it. We are respectable people and know how to dress and conduct ourselves. I don't care about myself, but I know how hurt John is. Do we have to send them a wedding present anyway? What can I say to make John feel better?

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The less said, the better. Even tho the bride's family puts on the wedding, the groom is allowed a certain number of invitations, "limited" as they might be. And no one has to send a gift unless he wants to.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Read Parade. You'll enjoy the entertaining and informative articles in this big magazine section of the "Sunday Journal and Star."

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts and North leads the six of hearts. How would you play the hand?

♠ 1073 ♠ AKQ
♥ QJ1052 ♥ A984
♦ J6 ♦ K103
♣ A54 ♣ K72

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the queen of spades, which you duck, and continues with the jack, which you win, South following suit. When you lead the king of hearts, South takes the ace and returns a heart to your queen. How would you now play the hand?

♠ AK74 ♠ 652
♥ KQJ ♥ 1074
♦ K93 ♦ A65
♣ AKJ ♣ 9432

1. You can't be sure of the outcome, but the method of play that stands out a mile is to win the heart with the ace and assuming that South follows low on the ace) return a low diamond to the jack.

If the diamonds are divided normally, that is, 4-4 or 5-3, you are home. If the jack loses to the queen and a club comes back you win and continue with a diamond, thus establishing a diamond trick in dummy to take care of your club loser.

If you were to take a heart finesse on the opening lead and lose to the king, you would be courting defeat. The danger is that South would win and shift to a club, in which case the contract would fail if the A-Q of diamonds were both badly placed or if you misguessed the location of the ace and queen.

You should be unwilling to subject yourself to such a guess when there is a perfectly simple way of avoiding it.

2. You have eight tricks and need a ninth. The problem is whether to enter dummy with a diamond and take a club finesse, or whether to play the A-K-J of clubs, hoping either to catch the doubleton queen or ten or to find the suit divided 3-3.

The finesse offers about an even chance of success, while playing the A-K-J of clubs in succession will succeed about two-thirds of the time. Refusing the finesse is consequently the better percentage play. Even though it is true that percentage plays don't always bring home the bacon, they are nevertheless far more reliable guides than anti-percentage plays or out-and-out hunches.

Dyas Criticizes Free Mail Use By Rep. Thone

State Democratic Chairman Hess Dyas complained Thursday about Republican Charles Thone's use of free mail privileges, and Thone responded by saying he is sorry Democrats have resorted to "nit picking."

Dyas noted Thone had used his franking privilege to send congratulatory forms to graduating high school students in his First District, and termed it "a questionable use" of the privilege.

From Washington, Thone, of Lincoln, said he had checked in advance to determine no violation was involved. He said the messages, which contained some scholarship advice, had been printed at private expense.

POSTCARD by Stan Heppner

Warm summer days in this little French-Canadian village. We have discovered a small supermarket. A general store with a fairly sophisticated stock. A movie theater showing "Airport" in French.

There is a small pharmacy. With free scales. An absolute godsend to the housewren who weighs twice a day and worries over each half pound up or down, it doesn't matter. It's a cause for gloom.

"I'm gaining weight," I said. "How much?"

She said "I weigh 110 and a half. Maybe not quite a half."

I said "That's what you always weigh."

She said "No, when I left home, I weighed 109." She said, "I'm going down in the afternoon and try it again."

Wild strawberries grown on the hillsides. The children bring home bowls full. They are tiny—about as big as the tip of your finger. They are sweet and have a lot of flavor.

At the market, food costs the same as at home.

Cigarettes are expensive — 55

I bought a half dozen different Canadian brands to try out.

Wine and liquor are sold in government stores. There's a list on the wall. It's extensive—you can get just about anything. You order. The man goes in back and brings it out.

You take it to the cashier and pay. Scotch that runs $6 at home costs $8 here. French wine you buy in the states for $2 goes for $3.

We get our checks cashed at a sparkling, efficient little bank. For $100 U.S. we get $102.24 Canadian. Each bill has a different color: The $1 is green; the $2, magenta; the $5, blue.

They are printed in French and English. They go just as fast as at home.

"What do you do with the money?" I just cashed a check for $50.

She said "Don't scream. I spent it."

(The children said: "The Cap'n's under full sail today. He'll be at his elevenes early.")

The log chalet we rented looks over the broad St. Lawrence seaway. Freighters ride the channel up to Quebec and Montreal. Though we're far inland, we get strong tidal action. In the afternoon the river drains back to sea and leaves long tide flats.

I asked the neighbors "What do you do with garbage?"

They said "Take it to the end of the road and throw it in the river."

I said "Everything? Bottles, Cans?"

They said "What else can you do?"

I do it. But I feel awful.

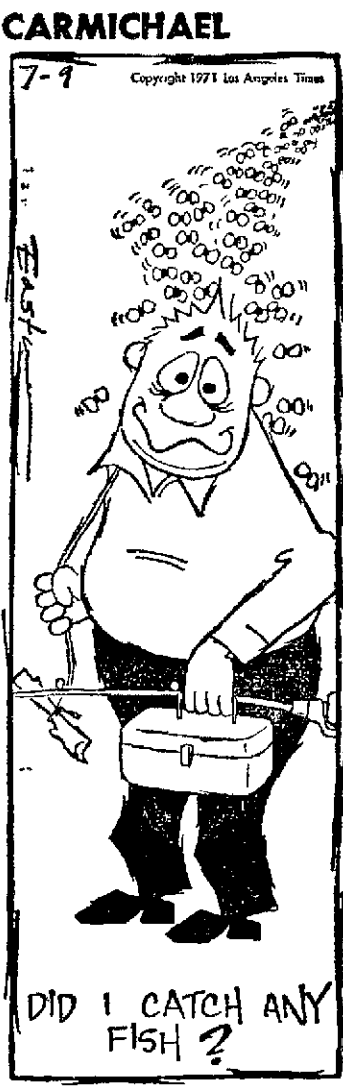

Inside the house, the walls are knotty pine. In niches on each side of the huge stone fireplace, there are two stuffed black bears.

They are mounted in lively fashion, each standing and holding onto a birch log. They look down on me with button eyes when I build the morning fire. It's chill before the sun comes up.

There is a fair-size living room. A screened porch. A kitchen. A bathroom. Stairs on each side of the living room go up to four small bedrooms. They are built into the peaked snow roof—your head is only inches from the incline.

Raise up suddenly in the night.

(as I did) and you put knots on your head. Ouch!

The hot water heater is only good for one bath. Then you wait a half hour for it to heat up. With four people, all used to hot showers in the morning, it's a problem. Sometimes desperate. "Get out of the bathroom! I'm first!" I said: "Just give me another cup of coffee. I'm going to stay dirty."

The children said: "And raise a beard?" I said: "You bet. I'm going to be a French-Canadian hippie."

Meeting Set At Wayne On Disaster

By United Press International
A state civil defense spokesman said Thursday a meeting would be held at Wayne Tuesday to explain disaster recovery procedures to public officials and private citizens.

Col. Burl Johnson, assistant state civil defense director, said the meetings would be held at the Wayne City Auditorium.

The calling of the meetings follows President Nixon's Wednesday announcement that a nine-county area in northeast Nebraska had been declared a disaster area.

Way Cleared For Aid
The President's declaration, requested by Gov. J. James Exon, cleared the way for state and federal aid to be used in clearing away debris and repairing damage caused by flash flooding in early June.

In addition to the Wayne meeting, Johnson said, state and federal officials would meet prior to going to the area and making "detailed" damage surveys.

Preliminary estimates, according to Johnson, indicated $700,000 in federal aid would be needed to repair damage to public property.

"The main problem in that area," he said, "was a heavy proportion of public property damage."

"There wasn't a great deal of private damage," he added.

Coordinator Named
The disaster response in being coordinated by Donald G. Eddy, federal disaster coordinator from the regional Office of Emergency Preparedness at Denver, Colo.

Johnson said public officials would be asked to meet with disaster workers at 1:30 p.m. at Wayne, and private citizens may come in for a 3:30 p.m. meeting.

The nine counties declared a disaster area were Wayne, Cedar, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston, Dakota and Dixon.

Johnson said representatives from the Small Business Administration and the Farm Home Administration would also attend the meeting.

Another agency which will be directly involved in repairing farm damage, Johnson said, is the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

"We expect the cost-sharing program of ASCS to be applicable to repairing damage to terraces, and to in general help restore farmland to productivity," he said.

Women Voter Unit Opposes Cuts In ADC

The League of Women Voters of Nebraska Thursday announced its opposition to the State Welfare Department's move to cut some Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) payments.

The state is expected to prorate some ADC payments later this summer to avoid a 1972 deficit appropriation.

It is believed that the prorating will average about 9%, principally causing reductions to those recipients who have income other than their monthly welfare checks.

The league's announcement said it "believes that this apparent economy move will have far-reaching personal and social consequences for the children affected."

"The ADC recipients first to be cut are those with supplemental incomes from working," the statement said, "and the league considers this to be arbitrary and overlooks the issue of the 60% of Nebraska's ADC recipients who work but because of low wages still qualify for assistance."

The league's announcement also asked, "Why has the amount appropriated, just three months ago, become less than needed right at the beginning of the new fiscal year?"

And, the league asked, "Why is it necessary to prorate funds for ADC alone when court administration and the Aid to the Blind and Disabled category also have anticipated deficits for fiscal year?"

Bicycle Committee Slates Route Study

The planning committee of the Mayor's Bicycle Committee Thursday agreed to initiate a study for bike routes on streets other than on the city's more congested arterials.

Mrs. Donald P. E. T. e. r. m. a. n., planning committee chairman, said the study, expected to take several weeks, would be aimed at developing designated bike routes with signs and paint striping.

Meanwhile, she said, another study group will work on long-range planning for more permanent bike routes, both for transportation and recreation.

To be investigated is the engineering and financial feasibility of providing bike routes in the sidewalk areas along arterial streets.

Also to be reported later to the committee are recommendations for bicycle parking facilities in the more congested areas.

Committee discussion indicated most cities use the conventional-type bicycle racks which are provided both by private and public funds.

Preliminary reports of public information and planning committees are expected to be made Tuesday to the full membership of the mayor's committee.

A major item on the full committee's agenda Tuesday is expected to be a preliminary report by the city legal department on a new bicycle ordinance.

No far-reaching changes are indicated, but City Prosecutor Jerry Nelson had earlier advised the committee that a single ordinance for bicycles would be desirable and several conflicts in existing ordinances should be resolved.

The Mayor's Bicycle Committee was named several weeks ago to develop a new bicycle ordinance for the consideration of the City Council and to make recommendations for promotion of bicycle safety on the city streets and the minimizing of traffic conflicts between motorists and bicyclists.

Barbiturate thefts from Civil Defense fallout shelters is more of a problem than originally thought, according to Civil Defense Authorities.

According to Deputy Director George Drake, inspections have turned up two or three shelters with missing drugs out of some 20 to 25 in the University of Nebraska campus area.

Drake and Director Jasper Skinner indicated that they didn't feel the loss was an exceptional amount but felt that many of the thefts took place after nationwide publicity of thefts of the barbiturates elsewhere.

The thefts throughout the country prompted the federal government to suggest that local Civil Defense authorities dispose of barbiturates stored in the shelters.

Skinner said that his offer will continue pulling all barbiturates from supplies in the shelters and donate them to hospitals and clinics which have need for them.

18-Race Vet Powder Puff Derby Leader

Baton Rouge, La. (AP) — Gini Richardson of Yakima, Wash., a veteran of 18 Powder Puff Derbies, was the apparent winner Thursday of the 25th annual all-women transcontinental air race officials said.

A derby spokesman said unofficial calculations showed Mrs. Richardson leading the field of 144 finishers, but added that the final results would not be announced until Friday.

An official said Mrs. Richardson, who owns and operates her own flight school, piloted her Cessna 210 over the 2,400-mile course from Calgary, Alberta, to the Louisiana capital city averaging 208 miles per hour.

It feels just great," said Mrs. Richardson. "My first race was in 1950 so you can imagine how I feel. This has been my ambition for 21 years."

Mrs. Richardson was one of only 14 solo pilots who entered the race this year, and will not have to share the $10,000 first prize if her apparent victory is made official.

The last solo pilot to win the race was Mara Culp in 1969. Mrs. Culp also holds the speed record of 210.39 miles per hour.

Mrs. Richardson, who has placed third twice and fourth two times, credited her apparent victory to the correct selection of airplanes and luck.

The 1971 derby, sponsored by a cigarette company, is the richest ever with a total of $25,000 prize money.

A record of 150 planes entered the race this year. Five did not make the start but only one, piloted by Louise White of Asheville, N.C. and Melba Brantley of Greensboro, N.C., did not finish.

Mrs. White became ill and landed in Columbia, Mo., where she was hospitalized with an unknown illness, officials said.

Legion Auxiliary Gives Pool Table To Vets Hospital

At the presentation, Mrs. Sullivan said, "Let this gift always be a reminder and pledge that the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Nebraska and its over 26,000 members have not, do not and will not forget their veterans."

Mrs. Sullivan also attended the awards luncheon sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary with their hospital representative, Mrs. William Schooner, as hostess. The luncheon is an annual event honoring the Grand Island Veterans Hospital staff and volunteers.

House Expands Credit For Non-Communist Trade

•The New York Times

Washington—The House voted Thursday to expand export credit financing by the Export-Import Bank but blocked a move designed to liberalize East-West trade.

The bill, passed by voice vote after sharp debate, would expand the Eximbank's lending authority, primarily by removing its transactions from the government's unified federal budget.

The major fight came as the House, by a vote of 207 to 153, retained the current ban on Eximbank financing of exports to Communist bloc countries supplying materials or aid to North Vietnam.

Amendment OK'd

As drafted by the House Banking Committee, the bill would have lifted the Communist trading ban and, instead, given the President discretion in approving trade with specific Communist countries.

The vote to retain the trade ban came on an amendment by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio. He argued that Congress should not encourage the Eximbank to finance transactions involving "nations that trade with our enemies."

Opponents of the Wylie amendment noted that the Export Administration Act passed by Congress two years ago says that it is U.S. policy "to encourage trade with all countries with which we have diplomatic or trading relations" except in those cases determined by the President to be against the national interest.

"Let's be consistent about this," Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, told the House.

Opponents of the Wylie amendment also pointed out that trade with Eastern Europe comprises about 16% of total world trade, but the United States share of that market is only 3%.

The only other debate came on the question of exempting Eximbank transactions from the unified budget. A move to retain bank transactions within the budget was rejected 249 to 112.

Those seeking to retain Eximbank within the government's over-all budget warned that to exclude it would

House Expands Credit For Non-Communist Trade

•The New York Times

Washington—The House voted Thursday to expand export credit financing by the Export-Import Bank but blocked a move designed to liberalize East-West trade.

The bill, passed by voice vote after sharp debate, would expand the Eximbank's lending authority, primarily by removing its transactions from the government's unified federal budget.

The major fight came as the House, by a vote of 207 to 153, retained the current ban on Eximbank financing of exports to Communist bloc countries supplying materials or aid to North Vietnam.

Amendment OK'd

As drafted by the House Banking Committee, the bill would have lifted the Communist trading ban and, instead, given the President discretion in approving trade with specific Communist countries.

The vote to retain the trade ban came on an amendment by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio. He argued that Congress should not encourage the Eximbank to finance transactions involving "nations that trade with our enemies."

Opponents of the Wylie amendment noted that the Export Administration Act passed by Congress two years ago says that it is U.S. policy "to encourage trade with all countries with which we have diplomatic or trading relations" except in those cases determined by the President to be against the national interest.

"Let's be consistent about this," Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, told the House.

Opponents of the Wylie amendment also pointed out that trade with Eastern Europe comprises about 16% of total world trade, but the United States share of that market is only 3%.

The only other debate came on the question of exempting Eximbank transactions from the unified budget. A move to retain bank transactions within the budget was rejected 249 to 112.

Those seeking to retain Eximbank within the government's over-all budget warned that to exclude it would open the floodgates to other agencies seeking exemptions.

Under its expanded credit financing, the chief new activity of the Eximbank plans to undertake is a new automatic "discount" facility for short-term export loans made by banks. A main innovation will be insulation of export credits from the effects of tight money.

Oil-Rich Islands Issue Involves Taiwan, U.S., Japan, Korea

Taipei (UPI) —What started last summer as a minor controversy over the right to tap undersea oil reserves has flared into a major political issue involving Nationalist China (Taiwan), Japan, South Korea and the United States. Even Peking has raised its voice.

The Taiwan government, already bitter over President Nixon's drift to a two-China policy, considers itself a victim of international power politics. It believes the United States has let it down and sided with their common World War II enemy on the issue of the Senkaku Islands.

The feeling of being let down by the most trusted of allies has prevailed in Taipei, while Taiwan government officials are formulating plans to cope with problems arising from the formal reversion to Japan of the Ryukyu chain, including Okinawa and the Senkakus.

Among the problems to be tackled immediately are America's continued use of the Senkakus as bombing ranges and the Japanese plan to patrol the waters near the islands.

The Senkakus, which Nationalist China calls the Tiaoyutai (Fishing Platform) Islands, are about 150 miles northeast of Keelung and 280 miles southwest of Naha. They will revert to Japanese rule in 1972 under an agreement signed in Tokyo and Washington simultaneously June 17. The reversion is subject to diet (parliament) and congressional approval.

Taiwan, which claims the islands as part of its territory, feels it cannot allow the Japanese maritime self-defense force to patrol the Senkaku waters, under which an estimated 50 million tons of petroleum is said to await tapping.

To complicate matters, Peking has been turning out propaganda claiming the Senkakus as Communist Chinese territory.

Red China Is Up To Something In Paracel Islands

Washington (AP) —American reconnaissance planes have been watching the development of what may become a new Red Chinese naval base in strategically located islands about 300 miles east of South Vietnam.

Defense Department reports tell of a large number of Chinese-escorted convoys carrying construction materials in recent months to the Paracel Islands in the South China Sea.

The Paracels are a group of coral islands whose ownership is disputed. Claims to them have been made by China, Taiwan, South Vietnam and the Philippines.

Pentagon analysts say they are uncertain why China is increasingly active in the Paracels, but they suggest that Peking may be building a naval complex to support the growing Chinese fleet in the South China Sea.

A base in the Paracels would put the Chinese in position to project their expanding naval forces more effectively in a sea area touching South Vietnam, the Philippines and Indonesia.

NU To Get Missile Site Near Mead

Washington — Approximately 112 acres of land and 27 buildings near Mead are to be given by the federal government to the University of Nebraska, Nebraska Rep. Charles Thone announced Thursday.

The property has a market value of $122,376, Thone said. The 112 acres will be used by the university to enlarge its agricultural field laboratory.

The land now being conveyed has been known as Offut Missile Site No. 1.

The existing lab, formerly the Nebraska Ordnance Plant, was given to the university by the federal government in 1962.

Damages Sought In 2-Car Crash

A $45,000 suit was filed Thursday in Lancaster District Court by Nona E. West against Robert J. Bartek in connection with a two-car accident Dec. 17, 1970.

The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the defendant when the car he was driving struck her vehicle at 40th and Adams.

She alleges that the defendant was negligent in not maintaining proper lookout, in failure to keep his vehicle under control, in speeding and following too close.

As a result of the collision, the plaintiff alleges she sustained multiple injuries to cervical and lumbar areas.

Washington (UPI) — The House voted to continue for five years the Interior Department's research on converting salt water to fresh, and ordered plans drawn for construction of a full-scale desalting plant, possibly in California.

Oil-Rich Islands Issue Involves Taiwan, U.S., Japan, Korea

Taipei (UPI) — What started last summer as a minor controversy over the right to tap undersea oil reserves has flared into a major political issue involving Nationalist China (Taiwan), Japan, South Korea and the United States. Even Peking has raised its voice.

The Taiwan government, already bitter over President Nixon's drift to a two-China policy, considers itself a victim of international power politics. It believes the United States has let it down and sided with their common World War II enemy on the issue of the Senkaku Islands.

The feeling of being let down by the most trusted of allies has prevailed in Taipei, while Taiwan government officials are formulating plans to cope with problems arising from the formal reversion to Japan of the Ryukyu chain, including Okinawa and the Senkakus.

Among the problems to be tackled immediately are America's continued use of the Senkakus as bombing ranges and the Japanese plan to patrol the waters near the islands.

The Senkakus, which Nationalist China calls the Taoyutai (Fishing Platform) Islands, are about 150 miles northeast of Keelung and 280 miles southwest of Naha. Resource Boundaries Untouched

The Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission has delayed action on revising natural resource district boundaries until a special meeting can be held in September to deal with the controversial boundary problem.

At present there are 33 natural resource districts; however, the Legislature in LB538 directed the commission to develop not less than 16 nor more than 28 districts based on the state's river basins. The deadline for completing the new boundaries is Oct. 1.

Commission Chairman Milton Fricke of Papillion suggested the delay pointing out that the Legislative Council interim study committee would also look at the districts.

'Action In September'
"We might as well let it go until we see what the committee does and then take action in September," Fricke said.

The commission voted to delay picking a date for the special meeting until the regularly scheduled meeting on Sept. 2.

The commission approved a final policy statement for the Tekamah-Mud Watershed Project in Burt County. This is the final step for the watershed prior to submitting the project for approval to the governor.

Go To Washington
After approval by Governor Exon the district's applications will go to Washington to await funding by the Congress.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to routine budget problems and to acceptance of applications for flood plain studies along the Platte River.

Applications were accepted from Central City, St. Edward, Buffalo County, Gosper County, Phelps County, Kearney County, Scotts Bluff County, Tekamah and Burt County.

The actual studies will be done by the Army Corps of Engineers; however, approval of the applications by the commission is required before the studies can be started.

Minneapolis Man Gets 3 Years On Federal Charge

William Jacob Bruss Sr., 29, of Minneapolis, Minn., was sentenced to three years imprisonment by U.S. District Judge Warren Urbom of Lincoln on a federal charge of theft of property in interstate shipment.

Bruss was sentenced after changing his plea to guilty on a federal indictment of theft of household goods from a motor freight truck in an Omaha warehouse in 1970.

A second indictment against Bruss, alleging he attempted to intimidate a witness and subvert justice, was dismissed on the motion of a federal attorney.

Bicycle Dealer Honored By 200 At Open House

Some 200 persons attended an open house honoring Billy Wolff, long-time Lincoln bicycle dealer and "friend of kids."

King's Food Store at 19th and O sponsored the event in recognition of Wolff as a "good neighbor" and "for all the people he helped," according to Jack Skinner, district manager.

Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh and representatives of many Lincoln fraternal and service organizations were on hand.

"Many of the friends," said Skinner, "recalled they got their first bicycle from Billy."

3 VA Hospitals Get More Staff

An announcement this week from the Veterans Administration to expand the staff of Nebraska's three VA hospitals came late, one hospital administrator said, since the additional 37 staff members at the Lincoln VA Hospital have been on duty since July 1.

The additional staff members and their jobs are: one each for business service, secretary, laboratory technician, medical service, pharmacist, psychologist, radiologist, postal worker and surgeon; two for building management; three for the police force; five LPN or nurse assistants and 18 nurses.

Policeman Is Robbed

Vereeniging, South Africa (AP) — Burglars broke into the home of Piet Jordaan, drank his liquor and got away with an undisclosed amount of cash. Jordaan is the district police commandant.

Resource Boundaries Untouched

The Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission has delayed action on revising natural resource district boundaries until a special meeting can be held in September to deal with the controversial boundary problem.

At present there are 33 natural resource districts; however, the Legislature in LB538 directed the commission to develop not less than 16 nor more than 28 districts based on the state's river basins. The deadline for completing the new boundaries is Oct. 1.

Commission Chairman Milton Fricke of Papillion suggested the delay pointing out that the Legislative Council interim study committee would also look at the districts.

"Action In September" "We might as well let it go until we see what the committee does and then take action in September," Fricke said.

The commission voted to delay picking a date for the special meeting until the regularly scheduled meeting on Sept. 2.

The commission approved a final policy statement for the Tekamah-Mud Watershed Project in Burt County. This is the final step for the watershed prior to submitting the project for approval to the governor.

Go To Washington After approval by Governor Exon the district's applications will go to Washington to await funding by the Congress.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to routine budget problems and to acceptance of applications for flood plain studies along the Platte River.

Applications were accepted from Central City, St. Edward, Buffalo County, Gosper County, Phelps County, Kearney County, Scotts Bluff County, Tekamah and Burt County.

The actual studies will be done by the Army Corps of Engineers; however, approval of the applications by the commission is required before the studies can be started.

Minneapolis Man Gets 3 Years On Federal Charge

William Jacob Bruss Sr., 29, of Minneapolis, Minn., was sentenced to three years imprisonment by U.S. District Judge Warren Urbom of Lincoln on a federal charge of theft of property in interstate shipment.

Bruss was sentenced after changing his plea to guilty on a federal indictment of theft of household goods from a motor freight truck in an Omaha warehouse in 1970.

A second indictment against Bruss, alleging he attempted to intimidate a witness and subvert justice, was dismissed on the motion of a federal attorney.

Bicycle Dealer Honored By 200 At Open House

Some 200 persons attended an open house honoring Billy Wolff, long-time Lincoln bicycle dealer and "friend of kids."

King's Food Host at 19th and O sponsored the event in recognition of Wolff as a "good neighbor" and "for all the people he's helped," according to Jack Skinner, district manager.

Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh and representatives of many Lincoln fraternal and service organizations were on hand.

"Many of the friends," said Skinner, "recalled they got their first bicycle from Billy."

3 VA Hospitals Get More Staff

An announcement this week from the Veterans Administration to expand the staff of Nebraska's three VA hospitals came late, one hospital administrator said, since the additional 37 staff members at the Lincoln VA Hospital have been on duty since July 1.

The additional staff members and their jobs are: one each for business service, secretary, laboratory technician, medical service, pharmacist, psychologist, radiologist, postal worker and surgeon; two for building management; three for the police force; five LPN or nurse assistants and 18 nurses.

Policeman Is Robbed

Vereeniging, South Africa (AP) — Burglars broke into the home of Piet Jordaan, drank his liquor and got away with an undisclosed amount of cash. Jordaan is the district police commandant.

The Law Backs Brock

A few racing folks were upset on Gold Cup weekend at Ak-Sar-Ben and not the least of those upset was jockey Lonnie Ray, a former rider in this state and a highly successful jockey at most meets where he hangs his tack, when he was not allowed to ride at Ak that day.

Turning thumbs down on Ray's desires was Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock, who, in addition to telling him he didn't want him in a saddle at Ak-Sar-Ben, also told him he was persona non grata on the Omaha racing plant's grounds.

And in his decision, Brock has a precedent court test to back him. The court test came when a jockey, who had a long record of suspensions but was not currently under suspension, was banned from riding at Monmouth Park by track management.

The jockey in filing suit contended that only stewards and racing commissions had authority to prohibit him from riding.

The court declared, "the association, a private corporation, could exclude a jockey from riding at its track even though he held a valid license from the state commission."

The court further ruled, "In the absence of statutes to the contrary, a racing association may exclude or eject any patron from its premises, except because of race, color, creed, sex, or religious beliefs, with or without stating a reason."

Easier To Give Up Baseball Than . . .

Any regular reader of the sports pages knows by now that Ken (The Hawk) Harrelson has given up baseball with the announced intention of going on the pro golf tour.

But Harrelson is likely to find giving up baseball was a lot easier than getting on the PGA Tour and that toughness is something stories on his decision failed to point out.

You just don't say you're going to play the tour these days. fly to a tournament and tee it up with Arnie, Jack and the rest of the boys.

Any aspiring golf tourist today must first pass a 72-hole Regional Tryout to gain admission to the Tournament Players Division Qualifying School.

The test at the qualifying school is over 108 holes and commissioner Joseph Dey points out there are no exceptions, not even for ex-baseball stars.

Harrelson may be through with baseball, but he's not yet on the play-for-pay golf circuit.

Huskers No. 1 With No. 1

The first of about $30 worth of pre-season football publications that will hit your corner news stand this summer has tabbed Nebraska as its No. 1 choice.

"The return of their two fine quarterbacks, an excellent nucleus from last year's national champions and outstanding personnel coming up from the unbeaten frosh club, including quarterback sensation David Humm, makes Nebraska our choice to repeat as college champs," says GamePlan editor and publisher Joseph Del Copolo.

The magazine tabs five Huskers as all-American candidates—back Jeff Kinney, offensive lineman Dick Rupert, defensive linemen Willie Harper and Larry Jacobson and defensive back Bill Kosch.

Game Plan calls the Big Eight race: 1. Nebraska, 2. Oklahoma, 3. Kansas, 4. Colorado, 5. Oklahoma State, 6. Iowa State, 7. Missouri, 8. Kansas State.

And the magazine sees Nebraska as a 15 to 17 point favorite over Oregon in the opener with Oregon ranked 15th in its pre-season forecast.

—AT HOLMES COURSE—

Golfers Grumbling Over Green Woes

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Few, if any, golfers in the Men's City Golf Tournament had anything good to say about the condition of the greens at Holmes Park Golf Course, the site of the third day of the tourney Thursday, as some scores rose and others plummeted.

"Houdini himself couldn't have made a putt on these greens," eventual leader Lance Gloe said after coming in with a two-over-par 74 for a three-day total of 219. "These greens are impossible to putt with the ball jumping around the way it does."

The reason for the outrage was the scored greens that remained for the tournament Thursday after being aereated on Tuesday.

The aeration left the greens looking like a rutted country road instead of greens ready for the city golf tournament.

"I had 25 putts yesterday (Wednesday) over the whole Pioneers Course," a furious Jerry Trimble said. "Today I had 22 on the front side alone and 18 on the back nine. These greens are hell. That's not golf at all."

Trimble, Gloe and Scott Brunzell entered Thursday's round in a three-way tie for the lead with each carrying amassed totals of 145, but that wasn't indicative of the way the day ended.

Trimble finished with an 83 for a total of 228 and Brunzell fired a 76 for a 221. Two new faces jumped ahead of Trimble with Jim Roudelbusch connecting with a 74 for a 226 and Mike Ley finishing with a 73 for a combined 224.

"Those greens scared me to death," Brunzell said following his round. "I was glad to get off the course. The conditions were really bad today."

"The only reason I had a fairly good round was my chipping I didn't leave the putts more than five feet from the hole and I missed a couple of those. Of course, everyone had the same conditions so it wasn't really too bad," the lanky golfer grinned.

Holmes pro Bob Schuchart said the machine that left the "score" marks was rented by the city for a week and "they had to use it when they could."

"I agree that it was a bad time to use it," Schuchart said following the day's action. "But they (the city) got it for the junior courses, then decided they might as well use it for Holmes."

Schuchart said the machine slices the top of the greens and aerifies underneath . . . a different way than pulling plugs as they do most of the time.

"But a lot of that complaining is just sour grapes," he grinned. "Most of the golfers still shot better scores than they did on the other courses."

"I don't care what they say about the machine," Trimble seethed. "They could still have worked around it. After all, the city tournament only comes once a year."

The 143 man field moves to Hillcrest Country Club today for the finishing round of the four-day tournament.

Longshot players who suffered on Wednesday's opening day card at the State Fairgrounds, certainly had no quarrels with Thursday's returns — especially the fifth race exacta.

When Lakeview Jet and Bookie teamed up to produce, a $1,598 return Nebraska exacta payoff records were shattered.

The highest previous return in the exacta, which is only in its second year in Nebraska, was a $1,425 return at Ak-Sar-Ben on June 23, 1970. The top State Fairgrounds return was $1,186 80 on July 24, 1970 when Shootin' Miss ($107.20) combined with What A Wink in the fifth race on that day.

Eight bettors collected from the exacta pool Thursday of $14,866.

Lakeview Jet, owned by Gary Seitz of Madison, S.F., was ridden by Alan Patterson and returned a whopping $201, $73 and $21.20 going off at odds of 99.50-11.

The 5-year-old brown gelding clipped Bookie, a 15-1 runner, by a neck in the 6-furlong chase. Bookie, which edged Tall Tack by a nose in a razor-tight photo finish, paid $13.20 and $6.

While the payoffs were higher than on opening Wednesday when four odds-on favorites dashed home, the jockey operations went as usual.

The track's perennial leading rider Fred Ecoffey, duplicated Wednesday's feat of guiding four winners home when he brought Modern Sarh in the first, Stealthelead in the second, Bid in the sixth and Gassed Up in the seventh. He also steered Daze of Glory to second and Lazy Mae to third and only failed to lead Tiny Ru by into a money positions.

Go Jan Go came up lame the first race and was taken off the track by the horse ambulance. Track officials reported the 4-year-old filly suffered a possible popped knee.

Two feature races spark today's card with the 2-year-olds taking the sixth race spotlight and the veterans romping in the seventh.

Paul Kemling's Amajewel with the Fairgrounds leading rider Fred Ecoffey, is set to challenge nine foes over 4-furlongs in an allowance test for $1,800. Amajewel shares second top-weight with Smokey's Sister (with Dave King) — each at 117 pounds.

Doodle Bird has been top-weighted at 120 pounds in the juvenile division while Counterfeet leads the elder with 118 pounds and King in the 6-furlong cause for 3-year-olds and up.

Apricot Laddy, winner of four Ak-Sar-Ben tests, gets in at second top-weight of 114 and jockey Felix Chavez

LEE CHARGES AGAIN

TROUBLE . . . Trevino blasts out of trap.

Trevino Tied With Jacklin

BRITISH OPEN HALF WAY

©The New York Times

Southport, England — It could have been a script writer's dream.

With four birdies down the stretch and a 40-foot putt across the heart of the home green for an eagle three Thursday, Lee Trevino came out of the rack to tie Tony Jacklin for the lead at 139 half way through this 100th British Open.

Next was the surprising Liang Huan Lu of Formosa at 140, with 1967 British Open champion Roberto D. Vicenzo and 1968 British Open winner Gary Player at 141. Then came Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Jim Kinsella of Ireland, Tom Horton and Mal Gregson of Britain at 142.

Both Jacklin and Trevino were tied among four at the top with 69's on Wednesday.

But where Jacklin had a solid round, Trevino messed up his first nine so badly that at one stage midway through he had three bogeys in a row and wound up with a 37, five strokes off the pace.

Then inspiration seized the little man. As the sun highballed over the horizon in early evening, Trevino started the charge that has won him the U.S. Open and Canadian Open titles in the last three weeks.

He dropped putts from 18 feet for birdies on the 10th and 12th holes. His rush was halted by a bogey on the short 14th but two great woods got him home on the par-five 15th and another birdie was in the bag.

A 15-footer for a birdie three on the 16th and he was now five under, straining at the leash. The largest crowd ever to watch the Open was massed around the 18th, as Lee reached the green in two with a five wood, hole high but 40 feet left.

"I had no idea of making it," he said later. "But I aimed for the hole and hit it hard."

Down went the ball for a three and high in the air went Trevino's cap. That last spectacular flourish had tied him for the lead.

The Jacklin comeback may cause shivers of surprise in locker rooms. Tony's performance on the American circuit so far this year has been a disaster. He has missed more cups than he has made and his best showing was a seventh place finish in the Greensboro Open.

But the hitch has gone from his swing and his wedge is back on target. His form was reminiscent of the days when he took the British Open in 1969 and U.S. Open in 1970.

Jacklin had posted his score by lunch time and it was not until late afternoon that he was challenged.

With a chance to tie for the lead coming down the home hole, Lu was just short in two, grinning and doffing his cap. But his first putt was scuffed half way and "putt three" finally toppled in from four feet. Lu was six under with his 140 and can thank a 20-footer for a birdie on 17 for it.

Giants Break Losing Streak With Triumph Over Astros

By Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants snapped a four-game losing streak by defeating Houston, 4-2, in major league baseball Thursday.

John Cumberland's six-hit pitching combined with a two-run double by Bobby Bonds to shatter the Astros' six-game winning streak.

Oakland stopped the Chicago White Sox, 4-2 and California tripped Minnesota, 7-4, in other games.

Bonds, who had scored the Giants' first run in the second on Dick Dietz' single, delivered his two-run double with the bases loaded in the third to put the Giants ahead to stay. Dietz followed with a forceout that scored Willie McCovey from third for his second RBI.

Chuck Dobson pitched a five-hitter for his eighth triumph as the A's overcame the White Sox. Two of the hits off Dobson were homers by Mike Andrews and Bill Melton. The A's scored all their runs in the second inning on an error, three singles, a double and a sacrifice fly.

A two-run homer by Tony Gonzalez and a two-run single by Sandy Alomar paced the Angels over the Twins.

The New York Mets, St. Louis, Atlanta and San Diego were not scheduled.

Bob Robertson's two-run homer highlighted a four-run first inning as Pittsburgh whipped Cincinnati 7-1. Rookie Bruce Kison got credit for the victory with relief help from Dave Giusti.

In other night games Boston beat Cleveland 5-3, Baltimore tripped Washington 7-3, Detroit took the New York Yankees 3-1, Milwaukee shaded Kansas City 2-1 and Philadelphia downed Montreal 7-5.

A two-run homer in the ninth by rookie Bob Montgomery gave the Red Sox their victory over the Indians. Three-run homers by Frank Robinson and Merv Rettenmund helped the Orioles whip the Senators. Rookie Bill Gilbreth hurled a three-hitter for the Tigers in taming the Yankees.

Tommy Harper singled home both Milwaukee runs in the third as the Brewers shaded the Royals. A three-run homer by Tim McCarver with two out in the eighth accounted for the Phillies' victory over the Expos.

And on the West coast Billy Williams cracked a run-scoring double to snap a 2-2 tie and spark the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over Los Angeles and a sweep of their four-game series.

Koosman's Shoulder, Elbow Found Healthy

New York (AP) — Jerry Koosman, New York Mets' left-hander, is suffering from soreness in the rib cage area and has no injury to his shoulder or elbow, according to an early prognosis Thursday by Dr. Kenneth Donaldson.

Koosman, who was placed on the disabled list Tuesday night, underwent a series of laboratory tests and X rays Thursday. The Mets said results of the tests will be known Monday or Tuesday.

At 6-feet-9 and 205 pounds, the 31-year-old Hightower is considered one of the top defensive players in the ABA.

And I've heard that people trying to make it to the track after getting off work at 5 o'clock often get stopped by that big, nasty thing.

Thursday I lost my $2 on Bookie, when the sweet thing lost by a neck but I won $4.40 on Bid when my lovely horse skipped home to bring my initial $100 pool to $107.20.

Today, I'm putting my $2 win tickets on Make Contact in the fourth and Msgr. Frank in the fifth.

The Law Backs Brock

A few racing folks were upset on Gold Cup weekend at Ak-Sar-Ben and not the least of those upset was jockey Lonnie Ray, a former rider in this state and a highly successful jockey at most meets where he hangs his tack, when he was not allowed to ride at Ak that day.

Turning thumbs down on Ray's desires was Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock, who, in addition to telling him he didn't want him in a saddle at Ak-Sar-Ben, also told him he was persona non grata on the Omaha racing plant's grounds.

And in his decision, Brock has a precedent court test to back him. The court test came when a jockey, who had a long record of suspensions but was not currently under suspension, was banned from riding at Monmouth Park by track management.

The jockey in filing suit contended that only stewards and racing commissions had authority to prohibit him from riding.

The court declared, "the association, a private corporation, could exclude a jockey from riding at its track even though he held a valid license from the state commission."

The court further ruled, "In the absence of statutes to the contrary, a racing association may exclude or eject any patron from its premises, except because of race, color, creed, sex, or religious beliefs, with or without stating a reason."

Easier To Give Up Baseball Than . . .

Any regular reader of the sports pages knows by now that Ken (The Hawk) Harrelson has given up baseball for the announced intention of going on the pro golf tour.

But Harrelson is likely to find giving up baseball was a lot easier than getting on the PGA Tour and that toughness is something stories on his decision failed to point out.

You just don't say you're going to play the tour these days, fly to a tournament and tee it up with Arnie, Jack and the rest of the boys.

Any aspiring golf tourist today must first pass a 72-hole Regional Tryout to gain admission to the Tournament Players Division Qualifying School.

The test at the qualifying school is over 108 holes and commissioner Joseph Dey points out there are no exceptions, not even for ex-baseball stars.

Harrelson may be through with baseball, but he's not yet on the play-for-pay golf circuit.

Huskers No. 1 With No. 1

The first of about $30 worth of pre-season football publications that will hit your corner news stand this summer has tabbed Nebraska as its No. 1 choice.

"The return of their two fine quarterbacks, an excellent nucleus from last year's national champions and outstanding personnel coming up from the unbeaten frosh club, including quarterback sensation David Humm, makes Nebraska our choice to repeat as college champs," says GamePlan editor and publisher Joseph Del Copolo.

The magazine tabs five Huskers as all-American candidates—I-back Jeff Kinney, offensive lineman Dick Rupert, defensive linemen Willie Harper and Larry Jacobson and defensive back Bill Kosch.

Game Plan calls the Big Eight race: 1. Nebraska, 2. Oklahoma, 3. Kansas, 4. Colorado, 5. Oklahoma State, 6. Iowa State, 7. Missouri, 8. Kansas State.

And the magazine sees Nebraska as a 15 to 17 point favorite over Oregon in the opener with Oregon ranked 15th in its pre-season forecast.

Golfers Grumbling Over Green Woes

By RANDY EICKHOFF

Few, if any, golfers in the Men's City Golf Tournament had anything good to say about the condition of the greens at Holmes Park Golf Course, the site of the third day of the tourney Thursday, as some scores rose and others plummeted.

"Houdini himself couldn't have made a putt on these greens," eventual leader Lance Gloc said after coming in with a two-over-par 74 for a connecting with a 74 for a 226 and Mike Ley finishing with a 73 for a combined 224.

"Those greens scared me to death," Brunzell said following his round. "I was glad to get off the course. The conditions were really bad today."

"The only reason I had a fairly good round was my chipping. I didn't leave the putts more than five feet from the hole and I missed a couple of those. Of course, everyone had the same conditions so it wasn't really too bad," the lanky golfer grinned.

Holmes pro Bob Schuchart said the machine that left the 'score' marks was rented by the city for a week and "they had to use it when they could."

"I agree that it was a bad time to use it," Schuchart said following the day's action. "But they (the city) got it for the junior courses, then decided they might as well use it for Holmes."

LEE CHARGES AGAIN

Trevino Tied With Jacklin

... BRITISH OPEN HALF WAY

©The New York Times

Southport, England — It could have been a script writer's dream.

With four birdies down the stretch and a 40-foot putt across the heart of the home green for an eagle three Thursday, Lee Trevino came out of the rack to tie Tony Jacklin for the lead at 139 half way through this 100th British Open.

Next was the surprising Liang Huan Lu of Formosa at 140, with 1967 British Open champion Roberto D. Vicenzo and 1968 British Open winner Gary Player at 141. Then came Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Jim Kinsella of Ireland, Tom Horton and Mal Gregson of Britain at 142.

Both Jacklin and Trevino were tied among four at the top with 69's on Wednesday.

But where Jacklin had a solid round, Trevino messed up his first nine so badly that at one stage midway through he had three bogeys in a row and wound up with a 37, five strokes off the pace.

Then inspiration seized the little man. As the sun highballed over the horizon in early evening, Trevino started the charge that has won him the U.S. Open and Canadian Open titles in the last three weeks.

He dropped putts from 18 feet for birdies on the 10th and 12th holes. His rush was halted by a bogey on the short 14th but two great woods got him home on the par-five 15th and another birdie was in the bag.

A 15-footer for a birdie three on the 16th and he was now five under, straining at the leash. The largest crowd ever to watch the Open was massed around the 18th, as Lee reached the green in two with a five wood, hole high but 40 feet left.

"I had no idea of making it," he said later, "But I aimed for the hole and hit it hard." Down went the ball for a three and high in the air went Trevino's cap. That last spectacular flourish had tied him for the lead.

The Jacklin comeback may cause shouts of surprise in locker rooms. Tony's performance on the American circuit so far this year has been a disaster. He has missed more cups than he has made and his best showing was a seventh place finish in the Greensboro Open.

But the hitch has gone from his swing and his wedge is back on target. His form was reminiscent of the days when he took the British Open in 1969 and U.S. Open in 1970.

Jacklin had posted his score by lunch time and it was not until late afternoon that he was challenged.

With a chance to tie for the lead coming down the home hole, Lu was just short in two, grinning and doffing his cap. But his first putt was scuffed half way and "putt three" finally toppled in from four feet. Lu was six under with his 140 and can thank a 20-footer for a birdie on 17 for it.

It seems that on an eight-race day, if you're late getting away from the track, you run into that old train and on a nine-race card, you run into it again if you get away quickly.

And I've heard that people trying to make it to the track after getting off work at 5 o'clock often get stopped by that big, nasty thing.

Thursday I lost my $2 on Bookie, when the sweet thing lost by a neck but I won $4.40 on Bid when my lovely horse skipped home to bring my initial $100 pool to $107.20.

Today, I'm putting my $2 win tickets on Make Contact in the fourth and Msgr. Frank in the fifth.

TROUBLE . . . Trevino blasts out of trap.

Giants Break Losing Streak With Triumph Over Astros

By Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants snapped a four-game losing streak by defeating Houston, 4-2, in major league baseball Thursday.

John Cumberland's six-hit pitching combined with a two-run double by Bobby Bonds to shatter the Astros' six-game winning streak.

Oakland stopped the Chicago White Sox, 4-2 and California tripped Minnesota, 7-4, in other games.

Bonds, who had scored the Giants' first run in the second on Dick Dietz' single, delivered his two-run double with the bases loaded in the third to put the Giants ahead to stay. Dietz followed with a forceout that scored Willie McCovey from third for his second RBI.

Chuck Dobson pitched a five-hitter for his eighth triumph as the A's overcame the White Sox. Two of the hits off Dobson were homers by Mike Andrews and Bill Melton. The A's scored all their runs in the second inning on an error, three singles, a double and a sacrifice fly.

A two-run homer by Tony Gonzalez and a two-run single by Sandy Alomar paced the Angels over the Twins.

The New York Mets, St. Louis, Atlanta and San Diego were not scheduled.

Bob Robertson's two-run homer highlighted a four-run first inning as Pittsburgh whipped Cincinnati 7-1. Rookie Bruce Kison got credit for the victory with relief help from Dave Giusti.

In other night games Boston beat Cleveland 5-3, Baltimore

Former Jayhawk Hightower Goes

Denver (AP) — Veteran forward Wayne Hightower was claimed on waivers Thursday from the Dallas Chaparrals by the Denver Rockets, a spokesman for the American Basketball Association club announced.

The former Kansas All-American, who has played nine years in the pro game, rejoins the Rockets where he was a regular during the 1967-69 seasons.

At 6-feet-9 and 205 pounds, the 31-year-old Hightower is considered one of the top defensive players in the ABA.

tripped Washington 7-3, Detroit took the New York Yankees 3-1, Milwaukee shaded Kansas City 2-1 and Philadelphia downed Montreal 7-5.

A two-run homer in the ninth by rookie Bob Montgomery gave the Red Sox their victory over the Indians. Three-run homers by Frank Robinson and Merv Rettenmund helped the Orioles whip the Senators. Rookie Bill Gilbreth hurled a three-hitter for the Tigers in taming the Yankees.

Tommy Harper singled home both Milwaukee runs in the third as the Brewers shaded the Royals. A three-run homer by Tim McCarver with two out in the eighth accounted for the Phillies' victory over the Expos.

And on the West coast Billy Williams cracked a run-scoring double to snap a 2-2 tie and spark the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over Los Angeles and a sweep of their four-game series.

KC Chiefs Sign Pick

Kansas City (AP) — Defensive tackle Wilbur Young, a second round draft choice from William Penn College, has signed an American Football Conference contract with the Kansas City Chiefs, head coach Hank Stram said Thursday.

'Weird Season' In Legion Ranks

... 1ST NATIONAL BANK HEADS FIELD DESPITE LEAKS IN DEFENSE

Locally, it's been a weird baseball season so far.

First National Bank, which owns the best record among Lincoln's five Junior American teams, has been winning with the worst fielding.

First National has compiled a 10-4 record despite committing an average of more than four errors a game, according to coach Willie Weisbrook, who says he's baffled by it all.

"I can understand booting the ball," Weisbrook says, "but I can't understand a rash of mental errors. We've got to cut down on these to stay as competitive as we've been."

"Our downfall has been playing for the other team as much as we have for ourselves," Weisbrook adds. "We've hit well enough to win every game, but in three of our losses, we made a last-inning error which cost us the game."

He cited a 4-3 loss against Central City, a 10-9 loss at Columbus (in which First National committed seven errors) and a 9-8 loss at Bellevue (a game in which First National once led, 6-0).

"We obviously depend a lot on our hitting," Weisbrook notes, pointing out that second baseman Bill Hendricks, who collected nine straight hits in one stretch of the early season, carries a super .490 batting average. Centerfielder Bob Martens also boasts better than a .300 mark.

"Pitching has not been real strong," Weisbrook admits, "but has been fairly consistent. Our kids throw well, but have had some control problems."

Bruce Batterman, who has a 4-0 record and a 3.00 earned-run-average, paces First National's staff, backed by Gary Healey's 2-1 mark.

Aamco and Gerry's, both of which own 6-4 records, appear to be Lincoln's other stronger teams.

After losing four of its first five games, Aamco has battled back with four straight wins on the strength of "more timely hitting and better defense," according to its second-year coach, Doug Kyles.

"Last year we won our division of the league with an 11-2 record," noted Kyles, the head football coach at Raymond Central H.S. "But I think we peaked a little early last year. We have six starters back from that club (minus University of Nebraska athletes Maury Damkroger, Tom Novak and Jim Smith), so maybe we'll peak at tournament time this year."

Outfielder Mike Reid (.412) and first baseman Don Young (.300) have supplied most of Aamco's .215 team batting average. Dave Wolfe (3-1 with 1.10 E.R.A.) and Bob Sampson (2-0 with 2.74 E.R.A.) are the pitching mainstays.

Coach Bill Honner's Gerry's club has received balanced batwork from leftfielder Rick Grell, third baseman Gene Lessman and second baseman Greg Contreras, all of whom are hitting about .350.

"That's the most hitting I've ever had from this team," third-year coach Honner offered. "We've been scoring a lot, and if our pitching comes around to match it, we'll be pretty tough."

Curt Michael (4-1) and Steve Hubka (2-1) have accounted for all of Gerry's pitching wins.

NBC is the fourth Lincoln American Legion club with a winning record (9-8) while Lincoln Mutual Life has suffered through a 2-9 season thus far.

NBC's bid has been hampered by three key injuries. Mike Reta, all-city centerfielder at East, broke some ribs in the fourth game of the season while stealing home against Nebraska City. He is expected to return to the lineup Sunday against Holdrege in a game at Sherman Field.

NBC coach Pete Chapman also has temporarily lost the services of pitcher Doug McLeese (2-2 with 3.20

E.R.A.), who pulled a muscle in his pitching elbow last week against Lincoln Mutual, and of relief pitcher Steve Boyer, who broke a wrist while sliding into second base June 26 at Fremont. Substitute first baseman Gene Smith also has been bothered with blood clotting in his leg.

Leftfielder Bob Blake (.375 and 15 runs-batted-in) and third baseman Chuck Arkfeld (.351 and 11 RBI) have produced the bulk of NBC's power while Jack Ball paces the pitchers with a 5-1 record and 2.03 E.R.A.

Lincoln Mutual Life, which has beaten only Wymore and Aamco this season, has been getting solid hitting from shortstop Tom Rempe (.360), pitcher-outfielder Mike Lien (.350) and leftfielder Joe Livingston (.300), but, like First National Bank, has committed "too many errors," according to coach Mike Bohaty.

Bohaty says, "as soon as we clean up our defense, we'll be able to play with any team."

Weaver Selects Kaline, Killebrew As All-Stars

BOSTON (AP).— Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers was named to the American League All-Star team for the 17th time and Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins for the 13th Thursday as Manager Earl Weaver completed his squad for next Tuesday's game with the National League in Detroit.

Catcher Bill Freehan of the Tigers was chosen for the eighth time, while Washington slugger Frank Howard was picked for a fourth appearance as the Senators' only representative.

Weaver provided only a couple of minor surprises as he notified league headquarters of his 11 reserve choices to round out the 28-player squad. For the most part he went along with fans' balloting, which determined all starters except the pitcher.

Others added were catcher Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees; infielders Leo Cardenas of the Twins, Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals and Bill Melton of the Chicago White Sox, and outfielders Bobby Murcer of the Yankees, Amos Otis of Kansas City and Don Buford of the Baltimore Orioles.

Freehan and Munson, the 1970 Rookie of the Year, finished in order behind starter Ray Fosse of Cleveland in the poll for catcher. Cardenas was runner-up to shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Boston Red Sox, and Killebrew finished second behind third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Orioles.

Weaver by-passed his own second baseman, Dave Johnson, to name Rojas, a member of the National League All-Star team while with Philadelphia in 1965. Rojas, among the league's top hitters this season, finished third in the balloting as a write-in candidate behind Minnesota's Rod Carew and Johnson.

Melton was overlooked in the voting, but was chosen as the White Sox' lone representative. He ranks among AL Leaders with 18 homers and 50 runs batted in through Wednesday night games.

In the outfield, Murcer, Otis, Kaline and Howard finished in order behind the top three vote-getters—Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, Tony Oliva of Minnesota and Frank Robinson of Baltimore. Buford, a switch hitter, was chosen over Oakland's Reggie Jackson and others.

Norm Cash of the Tigers, named Wednesday to replace injured Boog Powell of Baltimore, was left as the only regular first baseman. However, Yastrzemski, Howard, Kaline and Killebrew have plenty of experience there.

The Oakland A's run away leaders in the American League West, will be represented by only one player, southpaw pitching sensation Vida Blue.

The other eight pitchers picked by Weaver were Mike

Cuellar and Jim Palmer of the Orioles, Mickey Lolich of Detroit, Sonny Siebert of Boston, Andy Messersmith of the California Angels, Marty Pattin of the Milwaukee Brewers and Sam McDowell of the Cleveland Indians.

'Weird Season' In Legion Ranks

... 1ST NATIONAL BANK HEADS FIELD DESPITE LEAKS IN DEFENSE

Locally, it's been a weird baseball season so far.

First National Bank, which owns the best record among Lincoln's five Junior American teams, has been winning with the worst fielding.

First National has compiled a 10-4 record despite committing an average of more than four errors a game, according to coach Willie Weisbrook, who says he's baffled by it all.

"I can understand booting the ball," Weisbrook says, "but I can't understand a rash of mental errors. We've got to cut down on these to stay as competitive as we've been."

"Our downfall has been playing for the other team as much as we have for ourselves," Weisbrook adds. "We've hit well enough to win every game, but in three of our losses, we made a last-inning error which cost us the game."

He cited a 4-3 loss against Central City, a 10-9 loss at Columbus in which First National committed seven errors and a 9-8 loss at Bellevue (a game in which First National once led, 6-0).

"We obviously depend a lot on our hitting," Weisbrook notes, pointing out that second baseman Bill Hendricks, who collected nine straight hits in one stretch of the early season, carries a super .490 batting average. Centerfielder Bob Martens also boasts better than a .300 mark.

"Pitching has not been real strong," Weisbrook admits, "but has been fairly consistent. Our kids throw well, but have had some control problems."

Bruce Batterman, who has a 4-0 record and a 3.00 earned-run-average, paces First National's staff, backed by Gary Healey's 2-1 mark.

Aamco and Gerry's, both of which own 6-4 records, appear to be Lincoln's other stronger teams.

After losing four of its first five games, Aamco has battled back with four straight wins on the strength of "more timely hitting and better defense," according to its second-year coach, Doug Kyles.

"Last year we won our division of the league with an 11-2 record," noted Kyles, the head football coach at Raymond Central H.S. "But I think we peaked a little early last year. Coach Bill Honner's Gerry's club has received balanced batwork from leftfielder Rick Grell, third baseman Gene Lessman and second baseman Greg Contreras, all of whom are hitting about .350.

"That's the most hitting I've ever had from this team," third-year coach Honner offered. "We've been scoring a lot, and if our pitching comes around to match it, we'll be pretty tough."

Curt Michael (4-1) and Steve Hubka (2-1) have accounted for all of Gerry's pitching wins.

Stock Mart Posts Substantial Gain

New York (AP) — The stock market posted a solid gain Thursday, running its latest series of advances to three sessions. Trading was moderately active.

The advance was the best since the market started moving up Tuesday in the first session after the long Fourth of July weekend.

Wall Street analysts said investors' attitude seemed to have been bolstered by a few early reports of improved second-quarter corporate earnings, and better-than-expected automobile sales in the first 10 days of June.

There also was continued evidence, they said, that the market had shrugged off the spreading boosts by major banks in their prime lending rate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials nudged over the 900-level for the first time since June 17, closing at 900.99 with a gain of 5.11.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.19 to 55.59. The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 1.2 to 322.9, with industrials up 2.1, rails up .4, and utilities up .5. Standards & Poor's 500-stock index added .30 to 100.34.

Gainers had an edge of 763 to 585 losing 1,675 issues traded on the New York stock exchange. There were 4 new 1971 highs and 26 new lows.

The good showing in automobile sales was reflected in a gain of 1 3/4 to 13.22 million shares from 14.52 million on Wednesday.

Institutional investors again were active with big block trades, 10,000 shares of more totaling 103, compared with 17 Wednesday.

The biggest blocks were 200,000 shares of Greyhound, 150,000 of Caterpillar Tractor, 150,000 of Heilebrunn, 140,000 of Pan American World Airways, and 100,000 of Marriott.

Greyhound, up 1/2 at 23 1/2 on total volume of 438,000 shares, paced the Big Board's most active list.

The good showing in automobile sales was reflected in a gain of 1 3/4 to 13.22 million shares from 14.52 million on Wednesday.

Corporate bonds advanced, and governments were mostly unchanged.

Butcher Hog Prices Rate Fully Steady

Omaha (AP) — Butcher hog prices rated fully steady Thursday, but weights over 250 pounds were greeted with a somewhat narrowed demand outlet and were slow to clear. Some slow-movers were 25 cents lower.

Broad demand existed for the uniform shipping type consignments and the volume of this description that moved at a $21.15 top was larger than on the previous session.

The bulk of 190-240 pound weights brought 20.25-21.25; uniform lats generally 20.75 or better. Sows were steady to 25 cents lower, with weights 325 to 600 pounds going for 15.50-17.00.

Slaughter steers and heifers sold steady to 25 cents higher as the usual late week volume of cornfed met with strong demand.

A few choice and prime steers averaging 1,125 lbs. cleared at 32.75-33.00; bulk choice 27.5-29.75, 31.75-32.75. Choice heifers were grouped at 31.00-32.25.

Slaughter lambs were strong with choice and prime lambs 50-110 lbs. 29.25-29.50, few 29.75. Slaughter ewes were strong to 25 cents higher at 4.50 to 6.25.

At the close, soybeans were 1 3/4 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel lower, July 3 29 1/2; wheat was 1/2 to 1/4 cents lower, July 1.54; corn was 1/2 to 1/4 higher, July 1.39; and oats were 1/4 to 3/4 higher, July 70 1/2 cents.

Analysts Seek To Preview Effect Of Lower Voting Age

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

In appraising long term investment prospects, analysts are seeking to preview the impact on voting patterns in the United States of extending the franchise to 18-year-old youths. The attitude of the oncoming generation to our style of living will have repercussions far beyond the visible financial consequences.

In order to face the challenge, it is important for older practitioners of the American way to be objective. It is a fallacy to assume unanimity among the youngsters. Like other age groups, they differ among themselves in philosophy, in intelligence, self-discipline and motivation.

But when articulate cool headed young people get down to the nitty-gritty, they are disposed to disclaim partisan ties and to reveal a preference for creative and imaginative politicians who are "problem solvers" rather than mere brokers in rhetoric.

That approach sounds sensible, but it is fallacious to start out with the assumption that better living stems mainly from governmental procedures. If that were the case, instead of our giving financial and technical aid to less developed nations, we could economize by merely exporting a set of model statutes and ideal governmental operating principles.

Cause Of Progress

But in real life progress is made in getting vast multitudes to emerge from poverty levels through improved techniques for making and exchanging things — non-governmental practices in the free enterprise system.

Visible gains in living standards come from the efforts of creative minds in the laboratories working in science, invention and engineering. Business, despite its shortcomings, is the great sociological benefactor in making it feasible for toilers to get more and better things in exchange for a week's work.

Thus the millenium seekers should not overlook the potentials of research and development. These are primarily individual accomplishments, not mass efforts and more or less independent of the ukases of government.

Since in the past four decades we have modified voluntary enterprise with a "mixed economy", in which there is increasing governmental intervention, the scientific observer doesn't try to explain the 1970's in terms of mid-Victorian laissez-faire economic theories. Yet it is still the function of individuals and aggregates of individuals (corporations) to increase the supply of usable wealth. Creative industry through lifting productivity multiplies wealth, whereas it is the function of government through compulsion to divide or redistribute existing wealth. Government through redistribution can rob Peter to pay Paul, but, unless there is a dramatic upsurge in total productivity, little visible progress is made toward more gracious living by those at the bottom of the economic totem pole.

Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters will be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.

MERRYLE RUKEYSER
Objectivity Needed

Orlando F. Weber, builder of Allied Chemical and a constructive researcher into the potentials of free enterprise, used to remark: "Government can't give anything to anybody without first taking it away from someone else."

In the generation since Mr. Weber made that generalization the Federal government has bulked larger in economic affairs. The country has moved from individualistic economies to political economy. Government stimulates productivity through vast research grants. And through financing technology in such fields as aviation, where defense planes become prototypes of civilian advanced models.

Be this as it may, the young, who will in due course inherit the earth, should be cautioned against depending unduly on government for benefits outside of its capacity to deliver. In a free society, each interdependent segment makes its contribution to a flourishing national economy. Certainly it is slanted to depreciate the contribution to material wellbeing of the great work force, supplemented by mechanically driven labor-aiding tools, provided out of the savings of thrifty investors.

Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters will be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.

Douglas County Departments Ask 23% Budget Hike

Omaha (AP) — The largest operating budget in Douglas County history, a 23% rise over last year, has been asked by county departments for 1971-72.

Adrian Jaworski, the county's finance director, said he is "sure" the county will have to levy as much property tax as possible — equal to the 14.28 mill levy ceiling which the county reached last year.

"I know that there isn't enough money," said Jaworski in making public a total budget request of $34,014,619, compared to a budget of $27,572,100 for fiscal 1970-71, which ended June 30.

250 Workers Fired After Leaving Jobs

Omaha (AP) — About 250 employees have been suspended for walking off the job at the Western Electric Service Center Wednesday, William H. Farley, manager for Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, said.

"We had a slowdown in the shop Tuesday," he said. "I'm guessing that maybe the fact that we talked to some people and told them to do their work . . . might have caused some reaction."

The suspension of the employees, members of Local 7495 of the Communication Workers of America, "doesn't shut us down but obviously it shuts down some operations," Farley said. "Some of the work that has to be done will be done by supervisors and others."

Patrick J. Gallaher, local president, said he did not work and didn't know the reason for the walkout, which occurred Wednesday afternoon.

"It was reported to me that it was because of harassment by management," he said. "We're in a negotiation period. The CWA is negotiating with Northwestern Bell. People are upset about every little thing."

Farley said the center has about 348 persons who work for Western Electric and about 50 who work for Northwestern Bell. He said the center has had "several walkouts recently."

Colorado's state motto is "Nil Sine Numine." Latin for "Nothing Without Providence."

The female burrowing owl lays its eggs in the shape of a horseshoe, the clutch numbering from six to seven eggs.

The first sidewheel steamboat appeared on the Mississippi river in 1811.

Birds can eat the berries of poison sumac, poison ivy and the deadly nightshade without ill effects.

The Indian sun dance was an eight-day ceremony, much of it secret, to honor the buffalo and assure good health to the hunter.
